I. In rule 134, sub-rule (1), delete the words "and a ticket..... ..... separately."

II. In rule 143, after the words "the quantity of ganja required," insert the words "and, in the case of export."

III. In rule 147, sub-rule (3), for the words "the warehouse clerk concerned and of the jamadar of the guard" substitute the words "an officer not below the rank of Sub-Inspector.

IV. In rule 148, delete the words "or a licensed vendor of the Presidency of Bengal holding a pass for the transport of ganja from Naugaon."

V. For rules 150 and 151 substitute the following rules :—

"150 (1) Where there is a warehouse provided by Government, all ganja and bhang shall be stored therein.

(2) Where there is no warehouse provided by Government, the Naugaon Ganja Cultivators' Co-operative Society, Ltd., shall store ganja or bhang in a private warehouse in a situation convenient of access to Excise Officers and so constructed that any ganja or bhang stored therein shall be perfectly secured against fraud or depredation.

151. A warehouse shall be under the joint lock and key of the officer in charge thereof and of the authorised representative of the Naugaon Ganja Cultivators' Co-operative Society, Ltd. The lock affixed by the officer in charge shall be supplied by Government and the key shall remain in the the personal custody of the officer in charge."

VI. Delete rule 152.

VII. For rules 153 and 154 substitute the following rules :—

"153 (1) Immediately on arrival of a consignment of ganja or bhang at a warehouse the Superintendent of Excise, or such other officer as may be authorized by the Collector in this behalf, shall ascertain by personal inspection of the consignment and by weighment that the seals of the bags or chests are not broken and that the gross weight of each bag or chest corresponds with that noted in the pass. He shall open each bag or chest, examine the condition of the ganja or bhang, and ascertain if it has in any way been tampered with.

(2) If the weight should disclose a deficiency in the gross weight of the consignment, the officer conducting the weighment shall weigh the ganja or bhang and the bags or chests separately. He must then re-seal the bags or chests.

(3) If the covering of any bag or chest appears to have been tampered with, or if any bag or chest be received without the original seal, or if the gross weight as ascertained by actual weighment be less than that given in the invoice by one seer, the officer in charge of the warehouse shall examine the ganja or bhang in such bag or chest with special care and, if there is reason to believe that the bag or chest has been tampered with, shall immediately report the case to the Collector with a view to the institution of proceedings for its confiscation should the Collector so see fit. The full duty must at once be levied on any deficiency in weight.

(4) Such deficiency shall ordinarily be calculated on the total weight of ganja or bhang in each consignment, and not on the weight in each bag or chest, compared with the entries in the pass. But it shall be open to the Collector to order that any bag or chest which appears to have been tampered with shall be separately dealt with and that any dust or foreign matter which may appear to have been fraudulently introduced shall be separated from the ganja or bhang before the weighment of the latter with a view to ascertaining the deficiency.

(5) If there be any increase of weight, the full quantity delivered, including such increase, shall be entered in the stock registers.

(6) No allowance shall be made on account of wastage or dryage in transit from the public warehouse to district warehouses or from one district warehouse to another.

154 (1) Stock shall be taken by the Collector, or, in a subdivision, by the Subdivisional Officer, or by the gazettad officer, deputed by the Collector or Subdivisional Officer in each warehouse between 25th and 31st March, and to avoid complication of accounts no ganja or bhang shall be issued from any warehouse from the day of weighment to 31st March.

(2) All the bags or chests shall be opened and the ganja and bhang taken out, and the ganja or bhang classified as unfit for use, if any, shall be separated. The ganja and bhang fit for use, that unfit for use and refuse, respectively, shall be separately weighed, and the ganja and bhang fit for use replaced in sealed bags or chests. The ganja or bhang classified as unfit for use and the refuse, if any, must be destroyed on or before 31st March with the approval of the Collector, in the presence of the Superintendent of Excise or Subdivisional Officer or other gazetted officer deputed to take stock, and written off the account on or before the 31st March. The officer in whose presence ganja or bhang unfit for use and refuse is destroyed shall record a certificate that this has been done.

(3) The Society shall be responsible for any deficiency in excess of 2½ per cent., and duty at the rate imposed under section 27 of the Act shall be realized on such deficiency on or before the 31st March. Ganja or bhang transported to another warehouse within one month of the date on which it was stored shall be excluded when calculating the allowance for wastage to be made in the warehouse from which such ganja or bhang was transported.

40. Rules 23 to 25 shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to such transports.

41. The Society must submit the original copy of the pass to the Collector or Subdivisional Officer within whose local jurisdiction the warehouse to which the ganja is to be transported is situated."

(a) when the stock in the warehouse to which the ganja is to be transported is likely to become exhausted before a consignment can be obtained from Naugaon, or

(b) when the warehouse from which the ganja is to be transported is to be closed.

In the case of such transports the provisions of rules 23 to 26, 39, 41, 42 and 43 shall apply, mutatis mutandis, but no dust or refuse shall be removed before transport."

to supplement, and in certain matters to supersede, the Royal Charter of Incorporation and the Statutes and Regulations of the Serampore College.

Preamble.

WHEREAS, on the 23rd day of February, 1827, the institution established in Serampore, Bengal, and known as the Serampore College, was incorporated by Royal Charter granted by his late Danish Majesty, King Frederick the Sixth, with the powers and privileges in the said Royal Charter set forth, including the power of conferring upon the students of the said College degrees of rank and honour according to their proficiency in science;

And whereas by Article VI of the Treaty of Purchase, dated the 22nd February, 1845, transferring Serampore to the British Government, it was provided that the rights and immunities granted to the Serampore College by the said Royal Charter, as translated and contained in Schedule I to this Act, should not be interfered with, but should continue in force in the same manner as if they had been obtained by a Charter from the British Government, subject to the general law of British India;

And whereas Statutes and Regulations for the better government of the said College and management of its concerns, as contained in Schedule II to this Act, were, on the 12th day of June, 1833, made and established under the powers conferred by Article 4 of the said Royal Charter;

And whereas, under the provisions of the said Royal Charter, the Council of the College consists of a Master or President and two or four members elected as provided in the said Statutes and Regulations, and the management of the College and its general order and government is vested in the Master and Council, and the said power of conferring degrees of rank and honour is vested in the first Council and their successors for ever;

And whereas it is considered that in order to give effect, under the conditions now existing, to the intentions of his late Danish Majesty and of the founders of the said College, that is to say, to promote piety and learning, particularly among the native Christian population of India, the amendment of the constitution of the College, by the enlargement of the Council on an interdenominational basis, with power to delegate some of its functions, in manner hereinafter appearing, is required;

And whereas the present Council of the said College consists of the Reverend George Pearce Gould, M.A., D.D., Master and President. George Barclay Leechman, Esq., Sir George Watson Macalpine, LL.D., the Reverend Robert Forman Horton, M.A., D.D., and the Reverend George Howells, M.A., PH. D., Principal of the College;

And whereas it is deemed expedient by the Governor in Council, with the consent of the said

Council of the Serampore College, that a Faculty and Senate be constituted for the said College in manner hereinafter appearing and that suitable standards be imposed in regard to any secular degrees that may hereafter be conferred by the said Council under the terms of the said Royal Charter;

And whereas it is necessary to make provision for the above purposes by subjecting the said Royal Charter, Statutes and Regulations to an Act of the legislature under the general law of British India in accordance with the terms of the aforesaid Treaty;

And whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council has been obtained to the passing of this Act;

SCHEDULE II.

[See Preamble and sections 10 (1), 14 and 15.]

Statutes and Regulations of the Serampore College.

June 12th, 1833.

1. Article the Third of the Charter granted by His Danish Majesty, having authorized the first Council of Serampore College in their life-time to nominate under their hand and seal such other person or persons for colleagues or successors as may to them appear most proper so that the Council shall always consist of at least three persons, their successors in the Council shall be competent in like manner to nominate in their life-time under their separate hand and seal such person or persons as they may deem most proper to fill vacancies then existing or which may occur on their demise; members thus nominated and chosen shall succeed to the Council in order of their nomination.

2. It being fixed in the Charter that the Council must consist of the Master or President and at least two, but not more than four members, and that on the demise of the Master no act shall be done until another be elected, the Master and Council for the time being shall appoint the next Master under their separate hand and seal. If on the demise of a Master no one be found thus appointed under the hand and seal of a majority of the Council, the senior member of the Council shall succeed as Master.

3. The Charter having given the casting vote to the Master, in all cases when the votes are equal the casting vote shall lie with the Master, and if there be no Master, it shall lie with the Senior Member of the Council.

4. Learning and piety being peculiar to no denomination of Christians, one member of the Council may at all times be of any other denomination besides the Baptist to preserve the original design of the Institution. However if on the election of a Master a number of the Council be equally divided, that part which is entirely of the Baptist denomination shall have the casting vote, whether it includes the Master or not.

5. The management of the College, including its revenues and property, the choice of the Professor and Tutors, the admission of students, the appointment of all functionaries and servants and the general order and government of the College, shall ever be vested in the Master and the Council. The Master shall see that the Statutes and Regulations of the Council be duly carried into effect, and take order for the good government of the College in all things. His signature is necessary to the validity of all deeds, instruments, documents and proceedings.

6. "The first Council and their successors for ever" being authorized by the Charter "to confer such degrees of rank and honour as shall encourage learning" in the same manner as other Colleges and Universities, they shall from time to time confer degrees in such branches of Knowledge and Science as may be studied there, in the same manner as the Universities in Denmark, Germany and Great Britain. In doing this the Master and Council shall ad libitum call in the aid of any or all the Professors of Serampore College. All such degrees shall be perfectly free of expense to the person on whom they may be conferred, whether he be in India, Europe or America.

The Serampore College Bill, 1918.

(Schedule II.—Statutes and Regulations of the Serampore College.)

7. No oaths shall be administered in Serampore College either to the Members of the Council, the Professors and Tutors, or the students. In all cases a solemn promise, duly recorded and signed by the party, shall be accepted instead of an oath.

8. Marriage shall be no bar to any office or situation in Serampore College, from that of the Master to that of the lowest student.

9. The salaries of the Professors and Tutors in Serampore College shall be appointed and the means of support for all functionaries, students and servants be regulated by the Council in such manner as shall best promote the objects of the Institution.

10. It is intended that neither the Master nor any Member of the Council in general shall receive any salary. But any Master who may not previously reside in the College shall have a residence there free of rent for himself and his family. And if the Council shall elect any one in Europe or in America, whom they deem eminent for learning and piety, a member of the Council, with a view to choosing him Master should they on trial deem him worthy, the Council shall be competent to appoint him such salary as they may deem necessary, not exceeding, however, the highest given to a Professor.

11. As the founders of the College deem the belief of Christ's Divinity and Atonement essential to vital Christianity, the promotion of which is the grand object of this Institution, no one shall be eligible to the College Council or to any Professorship who is known to oppose these doctrines, and should any one of the Professors or any member of the Council unhappily change his views after his election as to oppose these fundamental doctrines of Christianity, on this being clearly and decidedly proved from his teaching or his writings, he shall vacate the office he previously held. But every proceeding of this nature on the part of the College Council shall be published to the Christian world, with the proofs on which it may rest, as an Appendix to the succeeding Report.

12. Members of the Council are eligible from among the Professors of the College, or from among any in India, Europe, or America, whom the College Council may deem suitable in point of learning, piety, and talent.

The Serampore College Bill, 1918.

(Schedule II.—Statutes and Regulations of the Serampore College.)

13. Students are admissible at the discretion of the Council from any body of Christians, whether Protestant, Roman Catholic, the Greek, or the Armenian Church; and for the purpose of study, from the Musalman and Hindu youth, whose habits forbid their living in the College. No caste, colour, or country shall bar any man from admission into Serampore College.

14. Expulsion shall be awarded in cases of open immorality, incorrigible idleness, neglect of the College Statutes and Regulations, or repeated disobedience to the officers of the College.

15. Any person in India, Europe or America shall be at liberty to found any Professorship, or to attach to Serampore College any annual exhibition or prize for the encouragement of learning in the same manner as in Universities of Great Britain, regulating such endowment according to their own will; and it shall be the duty of the College Council to carry such benefactions into effect in strict consonance with the will of the donors as far as shall be consistent with the Statutes of the College.

16. It shall be lawful for the first Council of the College or their successors to make and rescind any bye-laws whatever, provided they be not contrary to these Statutes.

17. The Charter having declared that the number of the Professors and Students in Serampore College remains unlimited, they shall be left thus unlimited, the number to be regulated only by the gracious providence of God and the generosity of the public in India, Europe and America.

PART I.

CLOSING OF PORTS.

Former Notice.—No. I of 1917 (This office No. 51 of 1917); hereby cancelled.

(1) My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, having taken into consideration the fact that it may be necessary to forbid all entrance to certain ports of the Empire, this is to give Notice that on approaching the shores of the United Kingdom, or any of the ports or localities of the British Empire, referred to in Part III of this Notice, a sharp look-out should be kept for the signals described in the following paragraph, and for the vessels mentioned in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice, and the distinguishing and other signals made by them. In the event of such signals being displayed, the port or locality should be approached with great caution, as it may be apprehended that obstructions may exist.

(2) If entrance to a port is prohibited, three red vertical lights by night, or three red vertical balls by day, will be exhibited in some conspicuous position, in or near to its approach, which signals will also be shown by the vessels indicated in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice.

If these signals are displayed, vessels must approach the port with the greatest caution and implicitly obey all orders or signals given them by the Examination vessel or signal station.

(3) At all the ports or localities at home or abroad referred to in Part III of this Notice, search-lights are occasionally exhibited for exercise.

Instructions have been given to avoid directing moveable search-lights during practice on to vessels under way, but mariners are warned that great care should be taken to keep a sharp look-out for the signals indicated in paragraph (2) above, when search-lights are observed to be working.

PART II.

EXAMINATION SERVICE.

(4) In certain circumstances it is also necessary to take special measures to examine vessels desiring to enter the ports or localities at home or abroad, referred to in Part III of this Notice.

(5) In such case, vessels carrying the distinguishing flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7) will be charged with the duty of examining ships which desire to enter the ports and of allotting positions in which they shall anchor. If Government vessels or vessels belonging to the local port authority, are found patrolling in the offing, merchant vessels are advised to communicate with such vessels with a view to obtaining information as to the course on which they should approach the Port. Such communication will not be necessary in cases where the pilot on board has already received this information from the local authorities.

(6) As the institution of the Examination Service at any port will never be publicly advertised, especial care should be taken in approaching the ports, by day or night, to keep a sharp look-out for any vessel carrying the flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7), and to be ready to "bring to" at once when hailed by her or warned by the firing of a gun or sound rocket.

In entering by night any of the ports mentioned in Part III, serious delay and risk will be avoided if four efficient all-round lamps, two red and two white, are kept available for use.

(7) By day the distinguishing flags of the Examination Steamer will be a special flag (white and red horizontal surrounded by a blue border) and a blue ensign.

Also, three red vertical balls if the port is closed.

By night the steamer will carry:—

(a) Three red vertical lights if the port is closed.

(b) Three white vertical lights if the port is open.

The above lights will be carried in addition to the ordinary navigation lights, and will show an unbroken light around the horizon.

(8) Masters are warned that, when approaching a British port where the Examination Service is in force, they must have the distinguishing signal of their vessel ready to hoist immediately the Examination Steamer makes the signal.

(9) Masters are warned that, before attempting to enter any of these ports when the Examination Service is in force, they must in their own interests strictly obey all instructions given to them by the Examination Steamer.

Whilst at anchor in the Examination Anchorage, Masters are warned that they must not (except to avoid accident) lower any boats, communicate with the shore, work cables, move the ship, or allow anyone to leave the ship, without permission from the Examination Steamer.

(10) In case of fog, Masters are enjoined to use the utmost care, and the Port should be approached with caution.

(11) Merchant vessels when approaching ports are especially cautioned against making use of private signals of any description, either by day or night: the use of them will render a vessel liable to be fired on.

(12) The pilots attached to the ports will be acquainted with the regulations to be followed.

PART IV.

SWEEPING OPERATIONS.

Notice is hereby given that under the Defence of the Realm (Consolidation) Regulations, 1914, the following Regulations have been made by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, and are now in force.

H. M. Vessels are constantly engaged in sweeping operations of the coasts of the United Kingdom.

Whilst so engaged, they work in pairs connected by a wire hawser, and are consequently hampered to a very considerable extent in their manœuvring powers.

With a view to indicating the nature of the work on which these vessels are engaged, they will show the following signals:—

A black ball at the foremast head and a similar ball at the yardarm, or where it can best be seen, on that side on which it is dangerous for vessels to pass.

For the public safety, all other vessels, whether steamers or sailing craft, must keep out of the way of vessels flying this signal, and should especially remember that it is dangerous to pass between the vessels of a pair, as the vessels may have mines trailing in their sweeps and also on account of the danger caused to traffic if mine-sweepers have to slip their sweeps to get out of the way of vessels.

CAUTION.

Part IV of this Admiralty Notice to Mariners is issued under the provisions of the Defence of the Realm (Consolidation) Regulations, 1914, and failure to comply strictly with the directions contained in it will constitute an offence against those Regulations.

Any person found guilty of such an offence is liable to severe penalties both of imprisonment and fine.

Any person aiding or abetting the commission of such an offence is himself guilty of an offence against the Regulations.

Attention is also drawn to the fact that any infringement of the directions contained in Part IV of this Admiralty Notice to Mariners is liable to result in the detention of the ship or vessel.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The District Administration Committee appointed by the Government of Bengal in 1913 recommended a reorganization of the system of village self-government. They pointed out that the Union Committees established under the Local Self-Government Act of 1885 (Bengal Act III of 1885) had largely failed to secure an effective system of rural self-government, inasmuch as under the Act the District Board is the administrative unit and the Union Committee is merely a subordinate body exercising restricted powers and dependent mainly on the District Board for funds. They were further of opinion that the scope of the functions of Chaukidari Panchayats was too little related to the needs of the villages; and they came to the conclusion that their extended usefulness and improvement were most likely to be secured by amalgamating their functions with those of the Union Committees. They proposed that every district should be mapped out into village unions administered by union panchayats, which should deal not only with the village police, but also with village roads, water-supply and sanitation and which should also exercise judicial functions, both civil and criminal. They further proposed that the unions should be grouped in circles and that for each circle a Circle Board should be constituted, which should represent the unions within the circle and supervise the working of the Union Committees. The Circle Boards should, in their opinion, replace the existing Local Boards, the continuance of which would be incompatible with a general extension of Union Committees.

The object of the present Bill is to give effect, with certain modifications, to the scheme of reorganization proposed by the District Administration Committee.

It is proposed to build up a system of rural self-government based on village authorities vested with the powers and duties necessary for the management of communal village affairs, and entrusted with powers of self-taxation necessary for that purpose. The proposed village authority, which will be called the Village Committee, will exercise a general control over the dafadars and chaukidars of the village and will be vested with power to provide for village sanitation, conservancy and drainage, to deal with the erection of buildings, water-supply, village roads and bridges, and to manage primary schools and dispensaries. It is also proposed to give power to Government to confer jurisdiction in petty civil and criminal matters on all or any members of the Village Committees. The power reserved to Government to constitute Village Benches and Village Courts is permissive, and the ordinary courts will have concurrent jurisdiction. Appeals from the decisions of Village Benches and Village Courts will not be allowed, but in the case of criminal trials, the Subdivisional Magistrate, or the District Magistrate where there is no Subdivisional Magistrate, and in the case of civil suits the District Judge may order a retrial if there is a serious failure of justice. The number of members of the Village Committee is to vary from 6 to 9, not less than two-thirds of whom are to be elected, and the Chairman is to be elected. The principal funds administered by the Committees will consist, in addition to grants made by the District Boards, of a village rate, which will be devoted to the pay and equipment of the dafadars and chaukidars, and to the salary of a Secretary and also to the execution of public works. The assessment of the rate will be according to circumstances and property and will be subject to revision by the District Magistrate.

The Bill provides that the Village Committees shall be grouped in circles under Circle Boards. The Circle Board will consist of 15 members, of whom two-thirds will be elected and one-third appointed by the Commissioner. The Chairman will be elected by its members. The District Magistrate, however, may appoint the Chairman on the request of the members. The chief work of the Circle Board will consist in supervising the operations of Village Committees and co-ordinating their plans. It may further, at the request of the District Board, supervise the management of any institution and the execution of any work or the performance of any duty entrusted by the District Board to any Village Committee within its circle.

The Bill provides that the Commissioner and District Magistrate shall have power of control over the Circle Boards and Village Committees, respectively. They may exercise this power by providing for the performance of duties in which those bodies make default and may supersede them in case of incompetency or wilful neglect of duty. The District Magistrate and the District Board are also authorized, by provisions similar to those contained in section 124 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885, to suspend the execution of orders and resolutions, and the District Magistrate may, as in section 126 of that Act, in cases of emergency provide for the execution of works required for the public service or safety.

As the new organization of rural self-government will render the continuance of existing bodies unnecessary, Chaukidari Panchayats, Union Committees and Local Boards will be abolished in any district or part of a district in which Village Committees and Circle Boards are constituted.

Notes on Clauses.

Clause 1 restricts the operation of the proposed Act to such rural areas as may be notified from time to time by the Local Government, and provides that the Act shall be introduced into whole districts or parts of districts, subject to the exclusion of municipal areas, and the conditional exclusion of cantonment areas.

Clause 2 (8) introduces a definition of "year" based on the definition of "year" in section 6 (19) of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884 (Bengal Act III of 1884). The local year varies in different parts of the Presidency and is adhered to in the mufassal in ordinary business transactions. It is necessary to recognize this in introducing a system which will have to be worked by villagers.

Clause 3 provides that the village unit shall be fixed by the Local Government according to local circumstances.

Clause 4.—The number of members of the Village Committee will be determined by Government in accordance with local conditions subject to a minimum of 6 and a maximum of 9. All the members of a Village Committee shall ordinarily be elected, but it is open to the Government to direct that in special cases a certain proportion of the members shall be nominated by the District Magistrate. Even in such cases at least two-thirds of the Village Committee will consist of elected members. Power has been taken to enable the District Magistrate to appoint members in cases where any village fails to elect the prescribed number of members.

Clause 5.—Sub-clause (1) prescribes the qualification of voters.

Sub-clause (2) allows any person who is of the full age of 21 years and resident within the village to be a candidate for election without being qualified to be a voter. This will enable persons, who, though poor, are respected by the villagers, to be elected as members of the Village Committee.

Clause 6 requires that the President of the Village Committee shall be elected. The District Magistrate will be empowered to select a President, if the Village Committee fails to elect a President in due time.

Clause 7 makes Circle Boards dependent on the existence of Village Committees, but is imperative when the latter exist.

Clause 8.—The number of members of a Circle Board is fixed at 15, of which 10 are to be elected. The electorate for a Circle Board is confined to members of the Village Committees within the area. Candidates, unless they are already members of Village Committees, must possess the qualifications of a village voter. Power is taken to enable the Commissioner to appoint in case the full number of elective members are not elected in due time.

Clause 9.—As in the case of Local Boards the Chairman of a Circle Board may either be elected by the Circle Board or he may be appointed by the District Magistrate on request.

Clause 10.—The same provisions as are contained in section 26 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 (Bengal Act III of 1885) will apply to the election or appointment of a Vice-Chairman of a Circle Board.

Clause 11 will prevent persons other than British subjects or subjects of any State in India from voting at elections for, or sitting as members of, Village Committees and Circle Boards. The Local Government with the approval of the Government of India, will be able to exclude any person from the scope of this clause.

Clause 12 follows the provisions of sections 18 and 18A of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 in regard to the power to remove members. This power is to be exercised by the District Magistrate in the case of a Village Committee, and by the Commissioner in the case of a Circle Board.

Under sub-clause (5) a member may also be removed on the recommendation of the Village Committee or Circle Board if he is guilty of misconduct in the discharge of his duties or of any disgraceful conduct. This provision is based on section 19 of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884.

Clause 13, sub-clause (1).—The term of office of a member of a Village Committee or Circle Board is fixed at three years from the date of his election or appointment, together with such further period as shall elapse before his successor can be chosen.

Sub-clause (2) provides that a member shall be eligible for re-election or re-appointment at the end of the term of his office if he is not disqualified for any of the reasons mentioned in sub-clause (1) or (3) of clause 12.

Clause 14 is based on the provisions of section 43 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885. It provides for the filling of casual vacancies caused by the removal of members.

Clause 15 follows the provisions of sections 27 and 27A of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885. The President of a Village Committee is to notify his intention to resign to the District Magistrate, and the Chairman of a Circle Board to the Commissioner.

Clause 16 is based on section 28 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 and section 19 of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884. The power of removal is to be exercised by the District Magistrate in the case of the President of a Village Committee and by the Commissioner in the case of the Chairman of a Circle Board.

Clause 17 is based on section 29 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Clause 18 is based on the provisions of section 29A of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885. As the appointed Chairman of a Circle Board is to hold office for one year, it is possible that cases will arise where his office will extend beyond the tenure of office of the Board at whose request he was appointed. Provision has been made in the proviso to sub-clause (2) to meet such a contingency.

Clauses 19 and 21 reproduce with verbal modifications sections 20 and 32, respectively, of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Clause 20 is based on section 75 of the same Act.

Clause 22, sub-clause (a) confers on the Village Committee the powers of the Panchayat under section 41 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870 (Bengal Act VI of 1870).

Sub-clauses (b) to (e) give to the Village Committee the powers of a Union Committee under section 115 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885, and sub-clause (f) gives to them the necessary general power to carry out the purposes of the Act. Sub-clauses (2) and (3) of this clause give to the Village Committee powers similar to those exercised by a Union Committee under sections 111 and 114 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Clause 23, sub-clause (1), is based on sections 11 and 12 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870, with the reservation that the views of the Village Committees must be considered in regard to the strength and cost of the establishment required.

Sub-clause (2) provides that the salaries and cost of equipment of Dafadars and Chaukidars shall be paid by the Village Committee.

Clause 24.—Dafadars will be appointed by the District Magistrate direct, and Chaukidars will be appointed by the District Magistrate on the nomination of the Village Committee, who will exercise the powers now vested in Panchayats under section 35 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870. The District Magistrate may dismiss a Dafadar or a Chaukidar, and the Village Committee may, with the sanction of the District Magistrate, dismiss a Chaukidar.

Clause 25 is based on the provisions of section 38 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870.

Clause 26, sub-clause (1), is based on section 39 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870, but is amplified to enable a Chaukidar to exercise the powers of a police-officer under section 54 (1) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898.

Sub-clause (2) defines the powers of a Dafadar. His duties, which are largely supervisory, will be provided for by rules under clause 111.

Clause 27 is based on section 40 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870, but is restricted to arrests made under clause 26. This will prevent persons arrested under the directions of a Village Bench from being taken to the police-station.

Clause 28 follows section 42 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870.

Clause 29 confers on the Village Committee the same powers and duties as are given to Union Committees by sub-sections (1), (2) and (3) of section 116 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885. Sub-clause (3) provides that the cost of work which the Committee is compelled to perform owing to default of an owner or occupier shall be recovered as if it were an arrear of rate imposed under clause 38.

Clause 30 follows section 117 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Clause 31 is based on section 118 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885. In the case of Village Committees the Circle Board will discharge the duties imposed on the District Board by section 118 of that Act in the case of Union Committees.

Clause 32 is based on section 118A of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885, but power has been taken to provide a penalty for voluntarily corrupting or fouling water, which is set apart for drinking or culinary purposes.

Clause 33 is based on the provisions of sections 108 and 109 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885. Power is also taken to provide for the lighting of roads within a village. This will be necessary in small trading centres.

Clause 34 confers power upon a Village Committee to establish primary schools and dispensaries or to assume charge of existing schools and dispensaries.

Clause 35 enables District Boards to make over to a Village Committee the management of any institution or the execution of any work within the area administered by the Committee. The funds necessary for the purpose will be provided by the District Board. Under section 101 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885, the District Board can make over such work to Local Boards. In areas where Local Boards will be abolished it will be necessary to have an agency to take their place. Power has been taken by means of item 20 of Schedule III to enable the District Board to make grants for this and other cognate purposes out of the District Fund. Clause 46 may also be compared.

Clause 36 is based on section 118B of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Clause 37, while enabling a Village Committee to appoint a Secretary to assist it in carrying out the purposes of the Act, gives the Committee discretion in regard to the amount of his salary.

Clause 38.—For carrying out the purposes of this Act the Village Committee will impose the rate provided in this clause. Sub-clause (a) prescribes that the amount to be raised shall cover the pay and the cost of equipment of Dafadars and Chaukidars as well as the salary of the Secretary. The excess percentage has been reduced from the 15 per cent. provided in section 13 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870, to 10 per cent., because it is contemplated that a paid Secretary will be employed instead of a collecting panchayat. The Village Committee will be given a free hand as to the incidence of taxation for this object within the limits imposed by clause 39, and subject to a power of revision of the assessment list by the District Magistrate under clause 41. Sub-clause (b) provides that the rate shall also include the amount required for the administration and improvement of the village. Subject to the conditions imposed in this sub-clause and in clause 39 and the revisional powers of the District Magistrate under clause 41, there will be no limit to the rate, as it is intended that the villagers shall have liberty in self-taxation.

Clause 39.—This clause is based on section 15 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870. The assessment to be imposed under clause 38 will be according to the circumstances and the property within the village of the persons liable to the same.

Clause 40.—The procedure for assessment will be determined by rules, but provision on the lines of section 19 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870, has been made for revision of assessment by the Village Committee in cases of hardship.

Clause 41 is based on section 20 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870.

Clause 42 provides that payment of the rate shall be made in accordance with rules made under clause 111. The latter half of the clause authorizes the Secretary to distrain and follows section 27 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870.

Clause 43, sub-clause (1), allows distraint and sale to be conducted according to rules to be made under clause 111. Sub-clauses (2) and (3) embody section 32 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870.

Clause 44.—To enable arrears of the village rate to be realized from persons who have not sufficient moveable property within the village, power has been taken on the lines of section 127 of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, to sell a defaulter's property situated outside the village.

Clause 45 reproduces the provisions of section 34 of the Village Chaukidari Act, 1870.

Clause 46.—This clause should be read with item 20 of Schedule III.

Clause 47.—All receipts of the Village Committee and of the Village Bench and Village Court will be credited to the Village Fund.

The expenses of the Village Bench or Village Court and of the Village Committee as well as the compensation to be paid to owners and occupiers of huts or privies removed under clause 29 will be paid out of the Fund.

The salary of the Secretary and the salaries and cost of equipment of Dafadars and Chaukidars are declared to be the first charge on the Fund.

Provision has also been made to prevent the diversion to other purposes of any money made over by the District Board for any specific purpose.

Clause 48.—This clause enables the Local Government to realize under the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913 (Bengal Act III of 1913), money advanced by them to defray the charges of watch and ward if the Village Committee makes default in payment.

Clause 49 declares the duties of Circle Boards, which will include supervision, and also the maintenance of communications in which several villages have a common interest and the performance of any duty entrusted to them by the District Board.

Clause 50 provides the necessary establishment, and a Circle Fund is established by clause 51.

Clause 52 provides by means of a schedule for the delegation of certain of the powers and duties of the District Magistrate under this Act.

Clauses 53, 54 and 55 provide for the decision of disputes on the same lines as sections 133, 135, 136 and 137 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Clauses 56, 57 and 58 follow sections 120, 121 and 122 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Clauses 60, 61 and 62 correspond to sections 125, 131 and 132 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885. The power of control however is to be exercised in the case of a Village Committee by the District Magistrate and in the case of a Circle Board by the Commissioner (see clause 59).

Clauses 63, 64 and 65 apply the emergency provisions contained in sections 124, 126 and 127, respectively, of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Clauses 66 and 67 apply the provisions of sections 139 and 140 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 to by-laws made by Circle Boards.

Clause 68 follows section 144 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885, but makes an exception in favour of a member of a Village Committee acting with the sanction of the Circle Board, owing to the difficulty in outlying villages of obtaining suitable contractors to carry out local works.

Clauses 69 and 70 correspond to sections 145 and 142, respectively, of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Clause 71 is based on section 155 of the Calcutta Improvement Act, 1911, and section 27 of the Bengal Medical Act, 1914. This clause is intended to prevent unnecessary harassment of local bodies or members thereof when they act in good faith and with due care and attention.

Clause 72 corresponds to section 146 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Clause 73 abolishes the Panchayats and the Union Committees and Local Boards in any district in which Village Committees and Circle Boards are constituted. This necessitates the modification of the existing Village Chaukidari Act and the Local Self-Government Act in those areas. The modifications are set out in extenso in Schedule III to the Bill.

Power has also been taken under this clause to revive these Acts in any area from which the proposed Act is withdrawn at any time.

Sub-clause (3) empowers the Local Government to dispose of properties vested in a Union Committee when it is abolished.

Clause 74 provides for the constitution of Village Benches in selected areas to try petty criminal cases.

Clause 75 provides that when cases of the kinds specified in Part A of Schedule IV occur in the village they may be tried by the Village Bench to which more serious cases of the kinds specified in Part B may also be transferred by the District or Subdivisional Magistrate. It will, however, be open to a complainant to institute the case in the ordinary Courts, if he is so disposed, but a Magistrate before whom a complaint triable by a Village Bench is brought may refer the complainant to the Village Bench [Cf. the Madras Village Courts Act Amendment Bill, 1917, cl. 17, proposed section 76 (7)]. The District and Subdivisional Magistrates will also have the power to transfer cases from the file of a Village Bench.

Clause 76 provides for the institution of cases before a Village Bench, and the recording of complaints made orally in the village.

Clause 77 provides for the summary dismissal of false and frivolous complaints, and for the refusal by the Bench to take cognizance of certain cases.

Clause 78 provides for the dismissal of complaints for default.

Clause 79 empowers the Bench to secure the attendance of the accused, who will not be arrested on warrant except by order of a Magistrate. If an accused, who has absconded, is forwarded in custody by the Magistrate, he will be detained in custody in the village till the Bench can be assembled to try the case. Cases of detention will be few as the Magistrate will ordinarily grant bail in petty cases.

Clause 80 provides that there shall be no appeal from an order of the Village Bench, but that the Subdivisional Magistrate or the District Magistrate where there is no Subdivisional Magistrate, shall have power to order retrial of the case either by an ordinary criminal court or by a Village Bench if there has been a serious failure of justice.

Clause 81.—The Village Bench may sentence an accused to a fine up to Rs. 25, and may order a complainant who has brought a frivolous or vexatious complaint to pay compensation to a like amount.

As in the Code of Criminal Procedure, provision is made for imprisonment in default of payment of fine or compensation, but safeguards have been imposed to relieve the offender of further liability when justice has been sufficiently vindicated, and to exempt women from imprisonment.

Clause 82 empowers the Local Government to constitute Village Courts in selected local areas for the trial of all or any of the classes of civil suits specified in clause 83.

Clause 83 is subject to the provision of clause 84 and provides, firstly, that certain classes of petty suits for money or for moveable property similar to those triable by Village Courts in the United Provinces under the United Provinces Act III of 1892, may be tried by Village Courts in Bengal, the Courts of the Munsif having concurrent jurisdiction. The limit of jurisdiction of Village Courts in Bengal in regard to such suits has been raised to Rs. 25, which is slightly more than the limit imposed in the United Provinces and Madras.

It will be open to either party to move the Munsif for the transfer to the ordinary courts of any suit specified in sub-clauses (a), (b) and (c).

Provision has also been made by sub-clause (d) that suits of the same classes but of a higher money value may also be instituted in the Village Court, if the plaintiff so desires, but that a defendant in such cases may claim a transfer to the ordinary civil court.

Clause 84 follows section 9 of the United Provinces Act III of 1892, but also excludes from the jurisdiction of the Village Court all kinds of suits in regard to rent, and suits for enforcement of a mortgage debt against the property mortgaged and also suits for the redemption of a mortgage.

Clause 85 defines the limits of the local jurisdiction of the Village Court in the interest of defendants.

Clause 86 provides for the institution of suits before Village Courts by a simple form of petition either oral or written.

Clause 87 provides for the dismissal of suits that are barred by limitation, and for the procedure to be adopted by Village Courts in refusing to entertain suits, which are outside their jurisdiction.

Clause 88 provides for the dismissal of suits for default, with power to the Village Court to restore a suit in cases of hardship, on the same lines as the power conferred by section 32 of Madras Act I of 1889.

Clause 89 enables the Village Court to call on the defendant to appear and answer.

Clause 90 empowers the Village Court to decide the suit ex parte if the defendant fails to appear, and if it is proved that due notice was given to him of the date fixed. Provisions similar to those contained in section 33 of Madras Act I of 1889 have been inserted enabling the defendant to apply for restoration of the suit on showing good cause for his non-appearance.

Clause 91 follows section 34 of Madras Act I of 1889.

Clause 92 gives the Village Court power to add parties to the suit at any stage of the trial, subject to the provision that a party so added must receive due notice and may claim that the hearing of the suit be commenced de novo.

Clause 93 prescribes that the Village Court is not to proceed with the trial of any suit which is barred under the principles of res judicata or lis pendens. It follows section 6 of Punjab Act VI of 1912.

Clause 94, which is based on section 45 of Madras Act I of 1889, prescribes that the decision of the Court shall be such as may seem just, equitable and according to good conscience.

Clause 95 corresponds with section 17 of Punjab Act VI of 1912 and empowers the Court to allow the realization of money or any moveable property by instalments.

Clause 96 declares that the decision of a Village Court shall not be subject to appeal but enables either party to the suit to apply to the District Judge for an order for retrial if the District Judge is satisfied that there has been a serious failure of justice.

Clause 97 enables a suit to proceed when the plaintiff or defendant dies during the pendency of the suit.

Clause 98, which follows section 22 of Madras Act I of 1889, requires that if a party applies to have a suit withdrawn from a Village Court or to have it retried, he shall at the time of making the application pay into the Court the full amount of fees payable under the Court-fees Act, 1870. In case the Court orders retrial of the suit by the same or another Village Court, it may order a refund of the fees.

Clause 99.—This clause prescribes a simple scale for calculating the costs of a suit tried by a Village Court. In practice the expenses of a Village Court will not be large, but a small fee by way of costs must be realized from the parties to defray working expenses. Costs realized by the Village Court will not therefore be payable to the parties, but they will be credited to the Village Fund out of which the expenses of the Court will be met. The absence of court-fees will reduce the expenses of parties to a negligible amount in almost every case (cf. clause 110).

Clause 100 provides for the disallowance of costs if any suit is instituted in the Court of a Munsif, which in the opinion of the Munsif ought to have been instituted in the Village Court. It is based on clause 8 of the Madras Village Courts Act Amendment Bill, 1917.

Clause 101 empowers the Village Court to declare the value of a claim in a suit where the claim is not for a specified sum of money.

Clause 102 provides for the execution of a decree of a Village Court when that Court cannot grant satisfaction, and is based on sections 22 and 23 of Punjab Act VI of 1912. An application for execution of a Village Court decree by a Munsif will not be entertained unless a certificate is attached to the effect that application for execution has been made in due time to the Village Court, but that it has been unable to effect satisfaction. The costs of execution will be paid to the decree-holder in cases in which he will be put to expense in obtaining execution and the costs in the suit in such cases will be credited to Government instead of to the Village Fund. This will tend to discourage slackness by Village Courts in executing their own orders.

Clause 103.—The Court-fees Act, 1870, the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, excepting Chapter XXXIII, and the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, will not apply to proceedings before a Village Bench or Village Court. Minor details of procedure will be provided for by simple rules made under clause 111. The execution of decrees in respect of immoveable property will also be provided for by rules under that clause.

Clause 104 provides that the President of the Village Committee if he is a member of the Village Bench or Court shall preside, and that the decision shall follow the opinion of the majority.

Clause 105.—Sub-clause (1) is based on section 16 of Punjab Act VI of 1912, but exempts from personal appearance persons who are already exempted under section 133 (l) of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

Sub-clause (2) authorizes a Bench or Court to refuse to summon or to enforce a summons issued against a witness whose attendance cannot be procured without unreasonable delay or expense, and sub-clause (3) provides that unless the expenses of a person living at a distance exceeding 15 miles from the Bench or Court house be paid in advance such person shall not be required to attend. These two provisions are intended to prevent the unnecessary summoning of persons living at a distance. The cases will be petty local cases which can be disposed of ordinarily on the evidence of the villagers.

Sub-clauses (4) and (5) provide penalties for disobedience to an order of the Village Bench or Village Court.

Clause 106 deals with the attendance of parties before a Village Bench or Village Court. Parties are ordinarily to plead their own causes, but in civil suits, and, with the permission of the Bench, in criminal cases they may appear by agent. The definition of "agent" is based on section 23 of the United Provinces Act III of 1892, but it has been made more restrictive in order to exclude the village tout.

Sub-clause (3) bars the appearance of legal practitioners before Village Benches and Village Courts.

Clause 107 deals with the representation of women and minors.

Clause 108 provides that all fines imposed and compensation awarded under the proposed Act shall be realized in the same manner as an arrear of rate imposed under the Act.

Clause 109 provides for the maintenance of registers of cases and suits by the Village Bench and Village Court and for such other records as they may be required to maintain by rules made by the Local Government.

Clause 110.—Owing to the levy of costs in a consolidated form under clause 99 it is unnecessary to charge separate fees on documents or for the service of processes. The Local Government will, however, prescribe fees for the supply of copies of documents by a Village Bench or Village Court.

Clause 111.—The rule-making clause is based on section 138 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 and brings together the rule-making powers referred to in the various clauses of the Bill. The rules to be made under this clause are to be made subject to the condition of previous publication.

Clause 112 is intended to prevent a member of a Village Bench or Court from trying any case or suit in which he is personally interested.

Clause 113, which is based on section 61 of Madras Act I of 1889, is intended to prevent members of Village Committees, etc., from bidding for or buying property sold under the provisions of the proposed Act.

Clauses 114 and 115 correspond to section 141 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885.

Schedule III repeals in areas in which the proposed Act is in force those provisions of the Chaukidari Acts which have been superseded by the Act or which are reproduced in it.

It also provides in detail for the abolition of Local Boards and Union Committees in areas in which the Act is in force, and transfers the ordinary duties of the Local Board to a Circle Board.

Under item 4 of the Schedule the Circle Board takes the place of the Local Board as the electoral unit for membership of the District Board.

Provision is made under item 20 to enable the District Board to grant subventions to Circle Boards and Village Committees out of the District Fund.

Notice of demand.

20. When the Collector has determined a sum to be payable by an assessee under either section 18 or section 19, he shall serve on the assessee a notice of demand in the prescribed form specifying the sum so payable.

Petition against assessment under this Act.

21. a return under section 17 or substantially to comply with all the terms of a notice served on him under section 18, apply by petition to the Commissioner for relief against any order of the Collector in respect of such assessment or adjustment.

(2) The petition shall ordinarily be presented within thirty days of receipt of the notice of demand; but the Commissioner may receive a petition after the expiration of that period if he is satisfied that the objector had sufficient cause for not presenting it within that period.

(5) The petition shall be in the prescribed form and verified in the prescribed manner.

Hearing of petition.

22. The Commissioner shall fix a day and place for the hearing of the petition, and on the day and at the place so fixed, or on the day and at the place, if any, to which he has adjourned the hearing, shall hear the petition and pass such order thereon, whether by way of confirmation, reduction, enhancement or cancellation of the assessment, or adjustment or otherwise and fixing such time for payment, as he thinks fit.

Power of review.

23. The Chief Revenue-authority may, of its own motion, call for the record of any assessment proceeding which has been taken by any officer subordinate to it, and make such inquiry and pass such orders thereon as it thinks fit:

Provided that it shall not pass any order enhancing the sum payable by an assessee without hearing him or giving him a reasonable opportunity of being heard either in person or by pleader.

Penal assessment.

24. If the Collector or the Commissioner in making any assessment or adjustment under this Chapter is satisfied that the assessee has concealed the particulars of his income, or has deliberately furnished inaccurate particulars of such income, and has thereby returned it below its real amount, the Collector or the Commissioner may direct that the assessee shall pay on the difference between his income as finally ascertained and the amount originally returned by him income-tax at a rate not exceeding double the rate which would otherwise have been payable:

Provided that no such order shall be made unless the assessee has been heard, or has been given a reasonable opportunity of being heard:

Provided further that no prosecution for an offence against this Act shall be instituted in respect of the same facts on which a penal assessment is made under this section.

Income escaping assessment assessable in following year.

25. If for any reason income chargeable under this Act has escaped assessment in any year, or has been assessed at too low a rate, the Collector may, at any time in the year next following, assess or re-assess such income, and all the provisions of this Act shall apply accordingly.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Act of the Indian Legislative Council received the assent of the Governor-General on the 22nd March 1918, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. X of 1918.

An Act to give additional powers to Courts to deal in certain cases with usurious loans of money or in kind.

WHEREAS it is expedient to give additional powers to Courts to deal in certain cases with usurious loans of money or in kind; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Usurious Loans Act, 1918.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan.

(3) The Local Government may, by notification in the local official gazette, direct that it shall not apply to any area, class of persons, or class of transactions which it may specify in its notification.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "Interest" means rate of interest and includes the return to be made over and above what was actually lent, whether the same is charged or sought to be recovered specifically by way of interest or otherwise.

(2) "Loan" means a loan whether of money or in kind, and includes any transaction which is, in the opinion of the Court, in substance a loan.

(3) "Suit to which this Act applies" means any suit,—

(a) for the recovery of a loan made after the commencement of this Act ; or (b) for the enforcement of any security taken or any agreement, whether by way of settlement of account or otherwise, made, after the commencement of this Act in respect of any loan made either before or after the commencement of this Act.

Re-opening of transactions.

XXVIII of 1855.

3. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the Usury Laws Repeal Act, 1855, where, in any suit to which this Act applies, whether heard ex parte or otherwise, the Court has reason to believe,—

(a) that the interest is excessive ; and

(b) that the transaction was, as between the parties thereto, substantially unfair, the Court may exercise all or any of the following powers, namely, may,—

(i) re-open the transaction, take an account between the parties, and relieve the debtor of all liability in respect of any excessive interest,

(ii) notwithstanding any agreement, purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation, re-open any account already taken between them and relieve the debtor of all liability in respect of any excessive interest, and if anything has been paid or allowed in account in respect of such liability, order the creditor to repay any sum which it considers to be repayable in respect thereof ;

(iii) set aside either wholly or in part or revise or alter any security given or agreement made in respect of any loan, and if the creditor has parted with the security, order him to indemnify the debtor in such manner and to such extent as it may deem just :

Provided that in the exercise of these powers the Court shall not—

(i) re-open any agreement purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation which has been entered into by the parties or any persons from whom they claim at a date more than six years from the date of the transaction ;

(ii) do anything which affects any decree of a Court.

"Explanation—In the case of a suit brought on a series of transactions the expression

'the transaction' means, for the purposes of proviso (i), the first of such transactions."

(2) (a) In this section "excessive" means in excess of that which the Court deems to be reasonable having regard to the risk incurred as it appeared, or must be taken to have appeared, to the creditor at the date of the loan.

(b) In considering whether interest is excessive under this section, the Court shall take into account any amounts charged or paid, whether in money or in kind, for expenses, inquiries, fines, bonuses, premia, renewals or any other charges, and if compound interest is charged, the periods at which it is calculated, and the total advantage which may reasonably be taken to have been expected from the transaction.

(c) In considering the question of risk, the Court shall take into account the presence or absence of security and the value thereof, the financial condition of the debtor and the result of any previous transactions of the debtor, by way of loan, so far as the same were known, or must be taken to have been known, to the creditor.

(d) In considering whether a transaction was substantially unfair, the Court shall take into account all circumstances materially affecting the relations of the parties at the time of the loan or tending to show that the transaction was unfair, including the necessities or supposed necessities of the debtor at the time of the loan so far as the same were known, or must be taken to have been known, to the creditor.

Explanation.—Interest may of itself be sufficient evidence that a transaction was substantially unfair.

LONDON GAZETTE.

No. 665.—The following is published for general information :—

Fourth Supplement, dated the 10th January 1918, to the London Gazette of the 8th January 1918.

War Office,
10th January 1918.

The Secretary of State for War has received the following Despatch addressed to the Chief of the General Staff, India, by Lieutenant-General Sir Stanley Maude, K.C.B., late Commanding-in-Chief, Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force :—

General Headquarters,
Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force,
October 15th, 1917.

SIR,

1. I have the honour to submit herewith a report on the operations carried out by the Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force during the period extending from April 1st to September 30th.

2. My previous despatch included a narrative of the operations subsequent to the fall of Baghdad up to March 31st, by which date our Columns had driven the enemy north-east, north and west in divergent directions along the Dialah, Tigris and Euphrates, respectively, and our advanced troops had established a screen covering Baghdad, being disposed approximately on the line Shahraban-Dogameh-Mushaidie-Feluja. In order, however to provide for the security of Baghdad, which is an open city devoid of means of defence, it seemed desirable to prosecute our operations against the shattered but reinforced Columns of the 18th Turkish Corps, with which we had been so recently engaged, whilst keeping careful watch on the movements of the 13th Turkish Corps, which was falling back before our Russian Allies, lest the enemy should detach troops from his direction against the right flank and rear of our movement towards Samarrah. The pressure applied by the Russian Columns which had already reached Karind with advanced troops at Khanikin, assisted by our troops operating in the Jebel Hamrin, as described in my last despatch, now forced the enemy to cross the Dialah and continue his retreat on Kifri.

3. On April 2nd we effected a junction with General Baroteff's troops, about Kizil Robat, and as soon as these were well established on the line of the Dialah our Column in this vicinity—having served the double purpose of harassing the retreat of the Turks and joining hands with the Russians—was withdrawn. This enabled us to resume our operations along both banks of the Tigris, which had been temporarily suspended.

4. On the 6th our Cavalry moved forward to the vicinity of Deli Abbas with instructions to cover our right flank, and by delaying action to draw on gradually any movement initiated by the 13th Turkish Corps towards the Tigris. On the left bank of the Tigris it seemed wiser not to commit our troops to definite action until such time as the intentions of this Turkish Corps became clearer. On the right bank of the Tigris the enemy's force was estimated at 4,000 rifles with 200 sabres and 16 guns, and these were holding Harbe with advanced troops about Beled Station. On the 8th our troops moved forward to attack the enemy's position covering Beled Station, and good progress was made until they came under close machine gun and rifle fire from some rising ground in that vicinity. The 51st Sikhs were ordered to secure this point, and making good use of the broken ground and well supported by artillery, they established themselves there without difficulty and pressed forward beyond. The enemy holding the station now found his position untenable, and soon his whole line was in retreat. Our losses were slight, but the enemy, in addition to his battle casualties, lost 200 prisoners, including nine officers as well as three machine guns and some rolling stock. On the 9th Harbe was occupied, and here a pause was ordered in order to allow for further operations on the left bank of the Tigris.

5. Our troops on the left bank had driven several parties of the enemy across the Shatt El Adhaim on the 7th, and on the following day a close reconnaissance of this river was carried out with a view to bridging it. It now became evident, however, that the 13th Turkish Corps from Jebel Hamrin and the 52nd Division of the 18th Turkish Corps on the line of the Shatt El Adhaim were contemplating a converging movement against our troops on the left bank of the Tigris. The 2nd and 14th Turkish Divisions, some 6,000 rifles strong, with 250 sabres and 32 guns, moving down the right bank of the Nahr Khalis Canal towards Deltawa, had by the evening of the 9th reached a point some seven miles south-west of Deli Abbas. On the following day our Cavalry, falling back under instructions, continued to draw them on whilst our Horse Artillery inflicted substantial casualties on their marching Columns, and by the evening they had reached Arab Bu Abin, but the 52nd Division remained stationary on the line of the Shatt El Adhaim. On the 10th the enemy was reported to be entrenching, but on the 11th he continued his advance, moving in dense columns with his left on the Nahr Khalis. To meet this movement and to support our Cavalry we had detached troops from Deltawa up the right bank of the Nahr Khalis Canal towards Deli Abbas, whilst another Column, leaving sufficient troops to contain the enemy on the Shatt El Adhaim, fell upon his right flank after a night march from Dogameh. This attack, resolutely pressed by two Welsh battalions and the Wiltshires, was a complete surprise, and before the enemy could recover himself heavy casualties were inflicted on his Columns by our well-handled artillery and by rifle fire. Low visibility owing to mirage, heat and the absence of water hindered our operations, but the enemy was soon in retreat, and by 7 P.M. he had regained Arab Bu Abin.

During the early hours of the 12th the enemy continued his retreat, followed by our infantry patrols, and in the darkness touch with him was lost. At 7 A.M., the Cavalry was ordered in pursuit, and at midday located him 6 miles west-south-west of Deli Abbas, covered by an entrenched rearguard. The Turks were now fighting a stubborn rearguard action, and this continued throughout the 13th and 14th, our progress being continuous but slow. Our Cavalry essayed a wide enveloping movement round the enemy's right flank so as to gain the Kifri Road ahead of him, but his right flank refused to the foot of the Jebel Hamrin, and lack of water prevented them from reaching their objective. During the night of the 14th-15th the enemy continued his retreat on Kifri, and by midday on the 15th our patrols had entered Deli Abbas, where the pursuit was stopped, as it was not intended to follow the enemy into the Jebel Hamrin, since the advantage of position would there have rested entirely with the defence. Over 300 of the enemy's dead were buried, and 1 gun and 80 prisoners were captured by us.

Having disposed of the 13th Turkish Corps temporarily, it was now decided to force the passage of the Shatt El Adhaim and deal with the detachment of the 18th Turkish Crops still holding it. These operations commenced early on the 18th, and by 6-30 A.M. our troops were sufficiently established on the right bank to allow of a bridge being thrown across the river. The channel was narrow, but full of quicksands, and these caused delay, but at 11-40 A.M., the bridge was completed, and by 2 P.M., our infantry had cleared the loop of the river and were moving towards the Barura peninsula. The Turkish opposition had collapsed, prisoners were coming in and a composite Cavalry Brigade moved forward in pursuit. This Brigade skilfully handled, pushed on resolutely and, in spite of heat and want of water, succeeded in turning the enemy's retreat into a rout. His casualties in killed and wounded were heavy, and 1,300 prisoners—of which 26 were officers—and 6 machine guns were captured. Indeed, only a small fraction of the troops opposed to us that day effected their escape. In this action an Indian Cavalry Regiment, the Horse and Field Artillery Batteries, and four Lancashire Battalions specially distinguished themselves.

6. On the 19th the Tigris was bridged at Sinijah and riverhead was moved up to that place. The enemy's opposition on the left bank having been completely destroyed, a further advance was now ordered on the right bank. The Turks were holding a position about Istabulat, facing south-east, with their left resting on the river and extending over a frontage about of 2½ miles across the Dujail Canal to the Baghdad-Samarrah railway. After crossing that railway their line bent back sharply, and continued more or less parallel with the railway track to a point west of Istabulat Ruins, a distance of over 3 miles. The Dujail Canal, diagonally situated to our advance, was a considerable obstacle, with banks 40 feet high in some places, and containing water 6 feet deep and 20 to 25 feet broad, and its banks had been prepared in places so as to bring enfilade fire to bear upon the ground south of it. Two redoubts north of the Canal were prominent features in this section of the defence, and immediately in rear of the Turkish left centre was a group of mounds affording good positions for machine guns. The position was a strong one, and was held by some 6,700 rifles with 200 sabres and 31 guns, whilst in the vicinity of Samarrah were reserves consisting of some 4,000 rifles with 500 sabres and 15 guns. The enemy's left and left centre were selected as the point of attack, and on the 20th his covering troops were driven in and an advanced line established to render it possible for our artillery to be brought forward and for the Canal to be bridged. At 5 A.M. on the 21st his position on the north side of the Canal was resolutely attacked by the Black Watch and 8th Gurkhas, under a creeping barrage, and both battalions made steady progress In spite of a hot rifle and machine gun fire from the main position the redoubt near the river was captured, and the garrison made prisoners. The other redoubt on this side of the Canal was assaulted, recaptured by the enemy, and finally secured by us, thus giving our troops a good foothold in this part of the enemy's defences. At 6-30 A.M., an attack by the Seaforths and 28th and 92nd Punjabis was launched south of the Canal. This advance was carried out with fine dash and gallantry across 2,000 yards of ground, devoid of cover, and by 7-25 A.M. the enemy's front line, some 700 yards long, was in our hands. Consolidation proceeded, and in spite of several counter-attacks all gains were held. Reconnaissances were made with a view to a further advance, but they indicated that further progress without reorganisation and careful preparation, which would only be possible under cover of darkness, would be needlessly costly. It was decided therefore to devote the remainder of the day and night to establishing ourselves securely and preparing for a simultaneous attack on both sides of the Canal, to be carried out next morning. A counter-attack by the enemy during the afternoon was dispersed by gun and rifle fire, and his artillery was active through the afternoon.

Early on the 22nd our patrols reported that the enemy opposite our right was beginning to withdraw, and by 4-30 A.M., the whole of the position had been evacuated, and was then occupied by us. The natural and artificial strength of the position now became apparent, and the number of enemy dead testified to the tenacity with which it had been held. Our troops moved forward in pursuit at daybreak and were in contact with the enemy's main body in the vicinity of Istabulat Police Post by noon, where his defensive system consisted of detached groups of trenches partially completed. The heat was great, and the attack was postponed till the evening, when the assault, aided by concentrated artillery fire, was delivered in dashing style by the Leicesters, supported by the 51st Sikhs and 56th Rifles, and the defence was easily penetrated. The attacking troops pressed on relentlessly and rapidly some 1,200 yards further, and the enemy's guns were only withdrawn just in time to avoid capture. The Turks rallied and put in a series of counter-attacks, with which our supporting troops dealt, but the enemy maintained a heavy fire until 8 P.M. when he retreated on Samarrah. This attack had been considerably aided by artillery fire from a Column detached along the left bank of the Tigris to co-operate. During the day a regiment of Indian Lancers made a spirited attempt to break through the line of trenches, and, supported by artillery fire, it captured the front Turkish trench, but its advance was finally checked by fire from other trenches in rear. Our captures on the 21st and 22nd amounted to 20 officers and 667 other ranks taken prisoners, 14 Krupp guns, 1 5·9 in. gun damaged, 2 machine guns, 16 engines and 240 trucks, 2 barges, many rifles and much ammunition and equipment.

At 10 A.M. on the 23rd Samarrah Station was secured, the enemy offering no further resistance and retreating on Takrit, and on the 24th Samarrah Town, on the left bank, was occupied and a post established there.

7 Whilst these operations were in progress on the right bank, it became evident that the 13th Turkish Corps was once more moving forward from the Jebel Hamrin, but this time down the Shatt El Adhaim, against our forces on the left bank of the Tigris, and the latter were accordingly readjusted to deal with the new situation. At 5 P.M. on the 23rd his leading echelon, estimated at 2,000 rifles, with 9 guns, had reached Duhaba, with his second group 17 miles in rear. The chance of defeating him in detail was thus offered, and orders were issued for a night march, culminating in an attack at dawn next day on his advanced troops. The infantry were to attack Duhaba whilst to the Cavalry, moving wide to the north, was assigned the mission of intercepting any Turkish forces moving up in support. Our right came in touch with the Turks soon after daybreak, and the action developed rapidly. As the pressure from our left began to be felt the Turks gave way, crossed the river, and retired rapidly up the left bank towards the remainder of their force, and in doing so presented good targets for artillery and machine-gun fire to our Cavalry This attack had been gallantly delivered by several Lancashire battalions, and as a result about 100 Turks were buried by us and 150 prisoners fell into our hands

On the morning of the 25th aeroplanes reported the Turks as retiring up both banks of the river, and our troops moved forward in pursuit. By the evening of the 27th they had reached Satha Ruins, being in touch with the Turkish rearguard covering withdrawal to and occupation of a selected position in the foothills of the Jebel Hamrin, and on the morning of the 28th we occupied a line within 2 miles of the enemy's position. Heat, low visibility and engine trouble had all combined to handicap reconnaissance by land and air, so that the situation still remained somewhat obscure, and during the night of the 28th-29th a violent dust storm arose, which continued intermittently for 48 hours.

Briefly put, the plan adopted was to throw our weight on the 30th up the left bank of the Shatt El Adhaim against the enemy's weaker flank and more shattered division, and then turning north and west to drive him away from water and his line of retreat. From dawn till 7 A.M. the dust storm abated, and our attack on the left bank, developing at 5 A.M., was brilliantly carried out by the Cheshires and South Wales Borderers over 1,000 yards of level plain, and was immediately successful. By 8 A.M. all objectives had been reached, including the village of Adaim, and the retreating Turks were being engaged at long range, whilst a number of prisoners were already in our hands. Two of our Companies, however, which had lost nearly all their officers, advanced too far in pursuit. For a moment they captured two batteries, a section of machine guns and many prisoners, but whilst still out of touch with the remainder of our force they were counter-attacked and isolated, They maintained a gallant hand-to-hand fight for some time, but few of them survived. This counter-attack, assisted by the configuration of the ground, and the dust storm, which was now raging, enabled the enemy temporarily to regain the village of Adaim, but, checked here by artillery and machine gun fire, he was unable to debouch, and was ultimately driven out again by 11 A.M., and our infantry firmly re-established themselves in the village. The Turks, aided by a continuance of the dust storm, strengthened their left and secured their line of retreat to the north-east, but towards evening the dust storm died down, and the enemy's second line trenches, his transport, his horse lines and his artillery north-east of the village of Adaim were shelled with good effect. Our troops bivouacked on the ground won and pushed forward patrols to maintain touch with the enemy, but during the night he withdrew, and at 6-45 A.M. on May 1st our aeroplanes reported him in retreat 7 miles away. In the action on the 30th the enemy suffered heavily in casualties, and our captures included 365 prisoners, 1 Hotchkiss gun, 1 machine gun, and rifles, equipment and all kinds of ammunition, whilst 214 enemy dead were buried by us. During this period of hard marching and heavy fighting the Buffs specially distinguished themselves on several occasions.

8. As a result of the fighting during the month of April the enemy's 13th and 18th Corps had been driven back on divergent lines, the former into the Jebel Hamrin and the latter to Tekrit. The 13th Corps had twice taken the offensive, with results disastrous to itself, and the 18th Corps had been defeated and driven from its selected positions on four occasions. Our total captures for the month amounted to some 3,000 prisoners and 17 guns, besides a considerable quantity of rolling stock and booty of all kinds. The objectives which we had set out to reach had been secured, and the spirit of the enemy's troops was broken. The fighting carried out during this month had imposed a severe strain upon the troops, for the heat, the constant dust storms, and the absence of water on occasions, tested their stamina very highly. But as conditions became more trying the spirit of the troops seemed to rise, and to the end of this period they maintained the same high standard of discipline, gallantry in action, and endurance which had been so noticeable throughout the Army during the operations which led up to the fall of Baghdad and subsequently.

9. The increasing heat now rendered it necessary that the troops should be redistributed for the hot weather, and that every provision possible under existing conditions should be made with a view to guarding against the trying period which was rapidly approaching. Whilst it was necessary to hold the positions which had been so bravely won and to strengthen them defensively, the bulk of the troops were withdrawn into reserve and disbributed in suitable camps along the river banks, where they could obtain the benefit of such breezes as were available and where a liberal supply of water for drinking, bathing and washing was obtainable.

For the remaining five months of the period under review the heat was considerable, and during the latter part of June, July and beginning of August it was intense. Consequently movements could not be undertaken by either side without grave risk of incurring substantial casualties from heat stroke and heat exhaustion. The troops enjoyed a well-earned respite from the continuous fighting in which they had been engaged during the five months terminating in April, but they were by no means idle. Our hold over the area was made secure, defensive positions and pivots were prepared, and training was carried on in the early mornings, and late evenings as the temperature permitted. Manly sports, too, which are so essential to the well-being of the soldier, especially when temporarily inactive in the military sense, were freely indulged in with beneficial results to the health and future fitness of the Army for service in the field. Arrangements had been made for a proportion of the troops to proceed to India on leave during the summer months, and those who had been on service for a considerable time derived much benefit from the change and rest thus obtained.

10. Early in June a communication was received from our Russian Allies to the effect that in consequence of the increasing heat they had found it necessary to evacuate the line of the Dialah River, and they subsequently withdrew beyond Karind towards Kermanshah. This rendered the occupation of Beled Ruz by us necessary, and this was carried out on the 23rd.

For some time after our occupation of Baghdad tribesmen on the upper reaches of the Dialah, Tigris and Euphrates, above Baghdad, were restless, and it was found necessary to take punitive measures against them. Columns for this purpose operated on the Euphrates from May 3rd to 10th, on the Tigris from May 16th to 24th, and on the Dialah from June 2nd to 8th and June 28th to July 3rd. In each case salutary punishment was meted out to the delinquents. Consequent upon these measures the situation became quiet on each river line, and the tribesmen have, generally speaking, remained peacefully disposed except in the case of the operations against Ramadie referred to below, when the refractory elements were again severely dealt with.

It now seemed desirable to increase our hold on the Euphrates line still further, and it was consequently decided early in July to occupy Sinn El Zibban, some commanding ground on the right bank of the Euphrates, about twelve miles up stream of Feluja, which dominates the left bank of that river at its junction with the Saklawie Canal. As this advance on our part would bring our right bank detachment within striking distance of Ramadie where the enemy was located, the opportunity seemed favourable for attacking him with a view to covering our movement. The enemy's troops at Ramadie, who occupied an entrenched position covering Ramadie from the east and south-east, were estimated at 1,000 rifles with 100 sabres and six guns, besides some 2,000 Arabs of the Delaim tribe.

On the 8th Sinn El Zibban was occupied, and by the 10th the Column destined to attack Ramadie was concentrated there. Careful reconnaissances of the approaches to Ramadie had already been carried out and motor vans and lorries were allotted to carry a proportion of the troops as necessary and thus minimise the amount of marching to be done in view of the heat then existing. Special provisions were also made for water and for ice. After a night march the Column was in touch with the Turks east of Ramadie by 4 A.M., on the 11th and by 8-15 A.M., after considerable opposition our troops had driven in the enemy's advanced troops, and were preparing for the final assault against his main position. But a blinding dust storm now sprang up, and this added to the fact that this day marked the commencement of an abnormal heat wave rendered the position of the troops more and more difficult as time went on. Observation became almost impossible and the interruption of our communications—both wireless and land line—by unlucky circumstances rendered co-ordination of measures for the attack impracticable. It was therefore decided to cancel the order for the attack, but the troops remained in their advanced positions throughout the day and were withdrawn during the night of the 11th-12th to the river bank about Mushaid, where shade was available, but whence they still continued to contain the Ramadie position. On the 12th the heat wave was still increasing and consequently further operations against Ramadie were deemed impracticable, but the troops remained confronting the Turks as there were indications that the latter were meditating retreat. As these indications did not materialise the forces withdrew to Sinn-El-Zibban on the 14th, this movement being methodically and well carried out, and some 1,500 tribesmen who followed up the rearguard were severely handled by our Artillery and Light Armoured Motor Batteries. The troops throughout the operation evinced a soldierly spirit and inflicted on their opponents severe battle casualties which considerably exceeded their own.

On the Dialah front our aeroplanes reported early in August that the Turks were entrenching a position south-west of Shahraban, and this was confirmed by reports received locally. It was therefore decided to occupy Shahraban without further delay, and for this purpose converging columns were despatched from Beled Ruz and Baqubah on the night of the 18th-19th. On the 19th Misdad was seized at dawn, and on the 20th Shahraban was occupied with slight opposition, the enemy retiring hastily into the Jebel Hamrin. A new line was at once established and consolidated without interference on the part of the enemy.

11. Plans were now maturing for the capture of Ramadie, the garrison of which had been reinforced as a result of the operations in July, but the distance from Baghdad and the bad state of the communications between these two places rendered this matter one of considerable difficulty. Very careful preparations were necessary before these operations could be carried out, and it was September 26th before a column of adequate size could be concentrated within striking distance of Ramadie for this purpose.

The enemy held an advanced position four miles east of Ramadie on Mushaid Ridge which runs north and south, and rises some 60 feet above the plain. To the north of the ridge lies the Euphrates River, and to the south the salt Habbaniyeh Lake. The Turkish main position was semi-circular in outline, and was sited about one mile to the east and to the south of Ramadie. The eastern front ran along but behind the Euphrates Valley Canal and the southern front across bare sandy downs extending from the Euphrates Valley Canal to the Aziziyeh Canal, which leaves the Euphrates one mile west of Ramadie and flows southwards. The plan of operations was to turn the southern flank of the Mushaid Ridge, secure a crossing over the Euphrates Valley Canal, and attack Ramadie from the south with the bulk of the column, whilst the cavalry operating west of the Aziziyeh Canal threw themselves across the enemy's communications with Hit by blocking the Aleppo road. Steps were taken to induce the enemy to expect the main attack against his left on the Euphrates, and with this intent the river was bridged at Madhij and a road was constructed thence up the left bank, whilst supplies were also collected there. The distribution of the troops until the night of the 27th-28th was also designed to give colour to such a movement.

At 6 P.M. on the 27th two infantry columns with the cavalry moved from Madhij to the position of assembly some 5 miles in front of our outposts, and the infantry subsequently made a night advance some 2 miles in a westerly direction to a position of deployment, whence an attack on Mushaid could be delivered at dawn. An infantry detachment also skirted the northern edge of Lake Habbaniyeh, and before daybreak on the 28th had secured important tactical features on and behind the southern flank of the Mushaid position, including a dam across the Euphrates Valley Canal, passable by all arms. This action compelled the enemy to withdraw from Mushaid Ridge, which he shelled heavily subsequently in expectation of its occupation by our troops, but in this he was disappointed, as our infantry moved south of the ridge and crossed the dam. At 7 A.M. the cavalry were transferred from our right to our left flank, their march being screened from the enemy by Mushaid Ridge. They crossed the Euphrates Valley Canal by the dam and pushed westwards across the Aziziyeh Canal to a position astride the Aleppo Road, so as to cut off the enemy's retreat. Meanwhile, to the west of the Euphrates Valley Canal, our left infantry column advanced against the enemy's southern front and occupied and consolidated a position under considerable opposition. In this attack the Dorsets and 5th Gurkhas especially distinguished themselves. Under cover of the attack our right infantry column was withdrawn, and passing in rear of the left column, was subsequently launched to an attack which secured a firm footing on Aziziyeh Ridge. Thus by nightfall the enemy was hemmed in on the south-east and south by our Infantry and on the west by the cavalry, whilst to the north ran the River Euphrates.

At 3 A.M. on the 29th the enemy made a determined effort to break through our cavalry and retreat by the Aleppo Road, but after an action lasting for one and a half hours they were driven back into Ramadie, the Hussars and part of a regiment of Indian Cavalry, with some Horse Artillery and Hotchkiss guns, being mainly instrumental in heading the enemy off. At 6-15 A.M. the infantry attack was renewed from the south-east and south and our left Infantry column captured successive positions along Azizyeh Ridge. The 39th Garhwalis seized thebridge where the Aleppo Road crosses the Canal and captured three guns and many prisoners by 7-30 A.M. whilst the 90th Punjabis pushed eastwards through Ramadie and secured the Turkish Commander (Ahmed Bey) at his headquarters near the eastern front of the position. Both these units displayed commendable dash and initiative, and by 11 A.M. the whole of the Turkish force had surrendered.

Throughout the operations, which were continuous, the endurance and fine fighting spirit of the troops was conspicuous, whilst the night operations so successfully carried out testified to the excellence of their discipline and training. During the daytime the heat was considerable, and those operations, which were conducted at some distance from the river, were only rendered possible by the excellence of the arrangements for water supply. A salient factor in these successful operations was the part played by the cavalry. First by their rapid movement round the enemy's rear, and subsequently by the tactical disposition of their machine guns they prevented the enemy's columns from breaking out, and so drove them back into the arms of the infantry. Very useful work was also done by the transport, and especially the motor transport, whilst the medical arrangements for the evacuation of the wounded over some bad ground were most satisfactory. Amongst our captures were included 3,454 prisoners, of whom 145 were officers and 192 wounded, 13 guns, 12 machine guns, 2 armed launches, 2 barges, and large quantities of arms, ammunition, equipment, engineering stores, railway material and supplies.

Simultaneously with the above operations on our left flank, our cavalry operating wide on the right flank of the Army, marched during the night of the 28th-29th and occupied Mendali early on the 29th. The Turkish detachment holding that town fled into the hills, leaving 300 baggage camels in our hands and suffering some casualties from our guns whilst retreating. Mendali had for some time been used by the Turks as a source of supply and its occupation, whilst supplementing our own needs, denied it for this purpose to the enemy.

12. In my former despatch I had occasion to bring to notice the capable handling of the troops by the higher Commanders, assisted by their staffs, and the gallantry, endurance and devotion to duty displayed by the Regimental Officers, Non-Commissioned Officers and men. To this I can only add that the fine record then established has been fully maintained under very trying climatic conditions, and that the fighting spirit, discipline and efficiency of this Army have never stood at a higher level than they do at the present moment. The further training which it has been possible to give the troops will tend to develop still further that close co-operation between all arms which was so noticeable throughout the operation last winter and which is so essential a factor to success in war.

13. Similarly the valuable services rendered to this Army by the Directors and the Administrative Services and Departments were previously dealt with by me in detail. In their case there has been no partial respite from their labours such as has been enjoyed by the fighting troops, for their work at the front, on the lines of Communication and at the Base has continued at the highest pressure. Reorganization, development of our resources and preparation for the futur· have needed careful thought and unrelaxed efforts on the part of all and the progress made in these directions has been very gratifying. More than a passing word of recognition is therefore due to these individuals, who, in spite of the intense heat during the summer months, have continued to work so assiduously in the interests of the Army.

14. Our communications by water and by land have been thoroughly overhauled to meet the new situation, additional ships and barges have been placed on the river, and our railway system has been developed as rapidly as existing conditions have permitted. The ever-increasing needs of this Army have rendered expansion as regards port facilities at Basrah necessary, and this has been successfully met by the opening of a subsidiary port in its vicinity, which is being still further developed as the result of the recommendations of a Committee assembled to report upon the matter.

An abnormally low river during the flood season gave rise to some anxiety that this might be followed by a correspondingly low river during the summer months, and, though the river did not fall below its lowest record, it reached as low a gauge as it has touched within reasonable recollection. The work of the Inland Water Transport was therefore from June onwards one of considerable difficulty, and it was due to the skill and energy of the personnel of the I. W. T., and to the admirable buoying of the channels, that the number of serious groundings was almost negligible, and that the service of maintenance in front of the Base was carried on unimpaired.

The work of transportation by the I. W. T. was ably seconded by the development of our railways, and the way in which, in spite of a limited personnel, construction progressed and the railways were worked at constant high pressure is deserving of high commendation.

The health of the troops during the summer months has been uniformly satisfactory, and many of the diseases from which we suffered in previous years—such as cholera, enteric fever and scurvy—were either non-existent or negligible in their extent. This successful result was partly attributable to the untiring work of the officers employed in the bacteriological laboratories, without whose valuable assistance the difficulty of dealing with the epidemic diseases would have been considerably increased. But, although better conditions as regards accommodation and increased facilities for combating the heat resulted generally in a far lower sick rate, an abnormal heat wave which swept over the area in July was responsible for a heavy casualty list. During this time the personnel of the Medical Services were severely taxed, but they resolutely and successfully responded to the calls made upon them. All ranks redoubled their exertions as the situation became more difficult, and the unremitting labours of the Nursing Sisters, many of whom suffered in health themselves. were worthy of the high record for devotion to duty which the Nursing Service has always maintained. The very practical assistance rendered by the British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John during this trying period was typical of the valuable services so consistently rendered by that organization.

The growing needs of this army and the necessity for marshalling all the available resources of this country have necessitated the formation of a special directorate to deal with this matter, and consequently the department of Local Resources which had been in process of construction during the advance on Baghdad took definite shape from the date of our arrival in that City. It will be realised that in a country such as Mesopotamia where supplies, though available in large quantities in certain districts, are organized under no system, the work of placing this matter on a sound footing is one calling for considerable business capacity and energy. It is sufficient, then, in order to show how successful this comparatively youthful organization has been, to record that all districts within reasonable distance of our troops have now been tapped, and that the ramifications of the department have extended very wide beyond the districts which are actually held.

15. The cordial co-operation of the Royal Navy, which yielded such valuable results during the advance on Baghdad, has since then been maintained uninterruptedly. The gun-boat flotilla participated in the fighting during April, rendering substantial assistance to the land forces, and during the summer months when active operations were temporarily suspended much useful patrol work on the Lines of Communication has been performed by it in spite of the low water conditions then existing. I was fortunate in receiving visits in turn from Vice-Admiral E. A. Gaunt, C.B., C.M.G., Naval Commander-in-Chief, East Indies, and Rear-Admiral D. St. A. Wake, C.B., C.I.E., Rear-Admiral in the Persian Gulf and Mesopotamia, and these visits provided an opportunity for the discussion of topics of interest to both services.

16. To the Signal Service and Telegraph Department much credit is due for the rapidity with which they have constructed the extended communications rendered necessary as a result of the operations carried out during last winter. The vast network of lines which has been so quickly erected has been of very real value to the army at large.

On other fronts at Nasariyeh and Ahwas and on the Lines of Communication Defences quiet has reigned throughout the period under review, a state of affairs largely due to the firm control exercised by local Commanders over their districts and to the capable manner in which the troops serving under them have carried out their somewhat monotonous duties.

A very high standard of efficiency, too, has been reached by the Imperial Service troops serving with this Army. The excellent spirit, zeal and keenness that has permeated them has proved a valuable asset, and our thanks are due to the ruling Chiefs of India by whose generosity and patriotism these Units have been provided and kept in the field.

17. Since my last despatch several units have come into prominence which were at that time not fully developed. The Light Armoured Motor Batteries began to make their mark during the advance on Baghdad, and since that time they have continued to render valuable services in reconnaissance work, in patrolling and in co-operating with other arms. The cars have been capably handled and the personnel are resolute and determined fighters.

The Field Force Canteen, originally on a small basis, has increased in size at a rapid rate in order to cope with the ever-growing demands of this Army. Branch canteens have been opened in larger numbers month by month at all suitable stations, and these canteens have contributed in no inconsiderable way to the health and well being of the troops at the present time.

The Military Police organisation has, owing to the development of the Force and the extension of our communications, been considerably increased, and the personnel have carried out their responsible duties satisfactorily, often under trying conditions of heat.

18. I wish to acknowledge once again on behalf of this Army the services rendered by those who have worked so zealously at home and in India to supply our needs. The difficulties with which they have had to contend are well recognised here and for this reason our gratitude is the more spontaneous.

19. In closing this despatch I would bring to notice the names of Lieutenant-General Sir W. R. Marshall, K.C.B., and Lieutenant-General Sir A. S. Cobbe, V.C., K.C.B., D.S.O., who have continued to render me every assistance and have commanded their respective Corps with competency throughout the period under review. During the month of April the fighting was severe, but these formations were handled throughout with vigour and judgment. To Major-General Sir H T. Brooking, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., my thanks are due for his resolute and able handling of the troops during the operations at Ramadie. The practical result of having secured the surrender of the whole force opposed to him is probably the best indication of his tactical skill and ability.

20. The occupation of Baghdad, the consequent extension of our Lines of Communication, the increase in the size of the Force, the development of our resources, and the need for looking well ahead into the future have thrown heavy work upon my Staff, both at General Headquarters and on the Lines of Communication. In spite of the great heat and occasional shortage of numbers in consequence they have responded wholeheartedly to every call made upon them, and I wish to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the unvarying support which they have rendered me and of the efficient manner in which they have carried out their duties.

Major-General Sir George MacMunn, K.C.B., D.S.O., deserves my thanks for the capable manner in which he has carried out his duties as I. G. C. His watchwords have been progress and efficiency, and the development of the Port and City of Basrah under difficult conditions, arising from an insalubrious climate, is a tribute to his energy and perseverance. His efforts have been ably seconded by the Base, Advance Base and Administrative Commandants and those working under their orders.

21. With our advent into Baghdad the duties and responsibilities of the Civil Commissioner, Major-General The Hon. Sir Percy Cox, G.C.I.E., K.C.S.I., already of an exceedingly heavy nature, have increased substantially.

I wish to express my gratitude to him officially for the assistance which he has rendered me and for the advice which has so readily been placed by him at my disposal from time to time. With his name I should like to associate the personnel of the Political Service working under his orders. Their duties have been responsible and at times dangerous, and they have not hesitated at all times to give of their best and have been the means of seconding the successful efforts of the Army in no small measure.

22. A list giving the names of those Officers, Ladies, Warrant and Non-Commissioned Officers and men whose services are deemed deserving of reward and special mention accompanies this despatch.

I have the honour to be,

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 1A.

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE.

The HON'BLE MR. W. E. CRUM made an oath of his allegiance to the Crown.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 1.

The following questions which had been starred were put and answered :—

By the Hon'ble BABU BHABENDRA CHANDRA RAY :—

1. Will the Government be pleased to state— Grants for girl

(i) the number of applications, for grants-in-aid for girls' schools in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions, which have been rejected during the current official year, and (ii) the reasons why these applications were rejected?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. O'MALLEY :—

" (i) Five.

(ii) The schools in question were lower primary schools of recent origin and the policy of the Education Department in regard to girls' primary schools is that no application for a departmental grant-in-aid for any school is entertained unless it has existed and worked satisfactorily for not less than a year. In addition to this, the grant-in-aid allotment at the disposal of the Inspectress of Schools had been hypothecated for existing schools and it was therefore not possible for her to make any new grants-in-aid, except by withdrawing grants from some of the older schools."

By the Hon'ble BABU BHABENDRA CHANDRA RAY :—

*2. (a) Will the Government be pleased to state— Assistant Inspectress of Zenana and Muhammadan girls' schools.

(i) whether there is an assistant inspectress of schools for zenana work and for Muhammadan education, and (ii) whether her work is limited to zenanas and Muhammadan girls' schools?

(b) If the reply to (ii) be in the negative, are the Government considering the desirability of directing that the said assistant inspectress should give her whole time to zenana work and to Muhammadan education?

(c) If the reply to (ii) be in the affirmative, will the Government be pleased to state the exact amount of travelling allowance drawn by the said assistant inspectress, as shown in the travelling bills, for visiting other than Muhammadan girls' schools and zenana work?

(d) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the officiating inspectress of schools, Presidency and Burdwan Divisions, often takes the said assistant inspectress to Hindu girls' schools with her? If so, why?

Questions and Answers.

(e) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the officiating inspectress of schools, Presidency and Burdwan Divisions, is often accompanied to Hindu girls' schools by the assistant inspectress in whose jurisdiction the school is, the assistant inspectress for zenana work and Muhammadan education and the local deputy inspector? If so, what are the reasons which make it necessary for the inspectress of schools to be accompanied by all these people on such occasions?

(f) Will the Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that, although the officiating inspectress is often accompanied by the assistant inspectress for zenana work and Muhammadan education, the latter's name is not mentioned in the visitors books?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. O'MALLEY :—

"(a) (i) Yes.

(ii) Yes, but occasionally she visits other schools under special orders.

(b) The Hon'ble Member is referred to the reply already given.

(c) The amount in the year 1916-17 was Rs. 42.

(d) No. It has occasionally happened that when the officiating inspectress and the assistant inspectress visit zenana agencies and maktabs together, the officiating inspectress has taken the opportunity of visiting a Hindu school either in the same place or on the way, and that the assistant inspectress has been present while the officiating inspectress inspected the school.

(e) The officiating inspectress often asks the assistant inspectress to accompany her to schools within the latter's jurisdiction. It is a common practice for subordinate officers to be present at the inspections of superior officers. When the schools are situated in out-of-the-way places, which have to be reached by a long bullock cart journey or by boat, a deputy inspector frequently escorts these ladies. The presence of an officer of this class helps to protect them from risk of molestation and insult.

In view of the reply to paragraph (d) of this question, no separate reply on this point seems necessary."

By the Hon'ble BABU BHABENDRA CHANDRA RAY :—

Visits by Inspectress of Schools.

8. Will the Government be pleased to state how many girls' schools, within the road distance of 10 to 20 miles from a railway station or a halting place, have been visited by the Officiating Inspectress of Schools Presidency and Burdwan Divisions?

Visits by Inspectress of Schools to model girls' schools in Presidency and Burdwan Divisions.

9. Will the Government be pleased to state the names of the model girls' schools which have not been visited by the Officiating Inspectress of Schools, Presidency and Burdwan Divisions, since her appointment as such, and the reasons why they have not been so visited?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. O'MALLEY :—

The schools in question are (1) the Sheakhala Model Girls' School in the district of Hooghly. (2) the Kantaldah Model Girls' School in the district of Howrah. (3) the Paraj Model Girls' School in the district of Burdwan.

Schools of this class being primary schools the Assistant Inspectresses are directly responsible for their inspection, and it is not necessary for the Inspectress to visit all of them. It is not therefore possible to assign any particular reason for the Offg. Inspectress not visiting these three schools."

(h) If so, are the Government considering the desirability of sending a communication to the Government of India on the subject?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. DONALD:—

(a) "The letter of the Government of India merely asked for an expression of the views of the Government of Bengal on a proposal for reviving the manufacture of salt in Bengal, primarily by the vacuum process, a proposal which was suggested by a retired officer in a communication which formed an enclosure to that letter. Government are unable to lay the correspondence on the table.

(b) Will the Government be pleased to state what effect, if any, has, so far, been given to the Resolution on this question moved by the Hon'ble Babu Akhil Chandra Datta and accepted by this Council?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

" (a) and (b) The question is now under the consideration of the Government of India, and Government are unable to lay any correspondence on the table at the present stage of the case."

Improvement of water-supply in Manikganj.

XXXI. With reference to the answer given to my unstarred question No. LVII of the 7th August, 1917, and question No. XXV of the 4th September, 1917, will the Government be pleased to state what steps have been taken to improve the water-supply and health conditions in Manikganj subdivision.

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. O'MALLEY :—

"A copy of an extract from letter No. 4765, dated the 30th November, 1917, from the Collector of Dacca to the Commissioner of the Dacca Division is laid on the table. "

Case of officiating Munsifs.

XXXII. (a) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a list of officers who are officiating as Munsifs in permanent and leave vacancies and as temporary additional Munsifs, showing :—

(i) the dates of their first appointments,

(ii) the period of their service in such appointments, and

(iii) the present age of each officer?

(b) Are the Government aware of the complaint that has been made that the case of these officiating Munsifs is a hard one and that they find it very difficult to maintain the dignity of their position?

(c) Is it a fact that there is a great congestion in the grade of officiating Munsifs?

(d) Is it a fact that these officers have to wait for four or five years before confirmation and that invariably they are not confirmed till they reach the age of 33 or 34 years?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a) A Statement† containing the particulars wanted by the Hon'ble Member is laid on the table.

(b) No.

* Vide Appendix G.
† Vide Appendix H.

Questions and Answers.

(c) It is a fact that the number of Munsifs on the officiating list is excessive. That the number was in excess of normal requirements was observed in the beginning of the year 1916. Recruitment was therefore reduced, and the reduced rate has since then been consistently maintained. It is hoped that by the close of the current year, the list will be in keeping with the requirements of the service.

(d) For some time, it has been the case that officiating Munsifs receive their first sub. pro tem. appointment at the average age of 31 years, and 3 years after the first appointment. Similarly they have been confirmed at an average age 32 years, and, in general, 4 years after their first appointment. With the reduction in the number of probationers, these periods and the average age will, it is hoped, be gradually reduced."

Prospects in the Provincial Judicial Service.

XXXIII. (a) What is the average number of vacancies in a year in the permanent cadre of the Provincial Judicial Service due to retirement and promotion to listed posts since the creation of a separate cadre for Bihar?

(b) What was the number of such vacancies in each of the years 1915, 1916 and 1917?

(c) Is it a fact that the total number of munsifs is 245 and that the average number of vacancies in consequence of retirement has been reduced to about 9 or 10 a year, since the creation of a separate cadre for Bihar?

(d) Are the Government aware of the grievance that is felt by the members of this branch of the service that they can only expect to become Sub-Judges at or about the age of 25 or 53 if the present state of things continues?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a) The average number of vacancies from all causes since the separation of the cadres in 1912 is about 12.

(b) In 1915, 10; in 1916, 15; in 1917, 11.

(c) The total number of munsifs is 245, to which should be added 8 additional munsifs who are practically permanent. The average number of annual vacancies due to retirement alone during the last six years is 8.

(d) A complaint of this nature has been made, but conditions have improved in recent years. The ages of officers appointed in the early part of 1916 to be Subordinate Judges substantive pro tempore ranged from 50 to 54 years. The ages of officers subsequently so appointed have been between 46 and 49 years. The munsifs who on the 1st January last were officiating as Subordinate Judges were aged between 44 and 48 years."

Transfers of Judicial officers.

XXXIV. (a) Are the Government aware that sessions in schools commence in the beginning of January, and that owing to the transfer of Judicial officers during the Puja holidays, the sons and wards of Judicial officers find it difficult to appear at the annual examinations which take place in December in a new school where the text books are different?

(b) Are the Government considering the desirability of fixing the time of transfer during the Christmas holidays?

(c) Are the Government aware of any reasons, either of their own or of the High Court, against these transfers taking place during the Christmas holidays?

Questions and Answers.

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a) It is the case that from a few of the officers transferred during the Puja vacation, applications for postponement of transfer on the grounds suggested have been received by the High Court. These were considered and disposed of on their merits. There is, however, no reason to believe that Judicial officers in general find it difficult to make suitable arrangements.

(b) No.

(c) Since the year 1880 it has been the practice to make general transfers with effect from the re-opening of the Courts after the Puja vacation. In the opinion of the Hon'ble Judges the advantages of this practice outweigh any possible disadvantages."

(b) Which of these houses are still in the occupation of the Department and for what purposes?

(c) With reference to the answer to the above question, will the Government be pleased to state with regard to each house—

(i) the average rent received by the landlord in each case for 3 years previous to occupation by Government;

(ii) the rent settled with Government;

(iii) the name of the officer who negotiated, or chiefly negotiated, the terms of settlement in each case between the landlord and Government;

(iv) in case of residential houses—

(1) the Municipal tax paid for each quarter for each such house;

(2) the Municipal valuation of each such house; and

(3) the approximate rent which such a house is expected to fetch on such a valuation?

Answer by the Hon'ble MR. KERR :—

"(a) (b) (c) (ii) and (iv) (1) A statement giving information regarding the rented premises at present in the occupation of the Calcutta Police is laid on the table.

(c) (i) and (iii) and (iv) (2) (3) It is considered that no useful public purpose would be served by directing the enquiries required for the collection of this information."

(b) Are the Government aware that one result of this transfer will be to qualify the Hindu officer, and disqualify the Muhammadan, for the post of inspectorship in the Calcutta Police?

The Superintendent of Police recommended that the question of renewing the arms license of Babu Ashutosh Roy should be held in abeyance pending the decision of the Court in the resulting prosecution, in which 27 persons who were alleged to have acted on behalf of Babu Ashutosh Roy were accused. The District Magistrate accepted this recommendation.

(d) Inquiries have been made by the Commissioner, who reports that Babu Ashutosh Roy asked him to set aside the order of the District Magistrate. The Commissioner considered the order a proper one, and declined to direct the District Magistrate to pass a final order before the decision of the criminal case. Government see no reason for intervening in the matter."

RESOLUTIONS.

APPENDIX TO THE LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 1.

The Hon'ble MR. PROVASH CHUNDER MITTER moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that—

(a) a sum of one lakh be provided and a staff be temporarily deputed for a period of one year for organizing village union societies in villages with a population of over 2,000 ;

(b) this sum be met from the provision of Rs. 6,64,000 allotted for construction of buildings in connection with the partition of the district of Midnapore.

He said :—

"My Lord, about the importance of mapping out the province into a number of village union societies, I believe the Government and the public are of one mind. It is a question of the utmost importance and whether it be in the region of Local Self-Government or of Provincial Self-Government that the civic life of the province should be properly organized. Some time ago I put a question inquiring as to the rate of progress we have made in the past and the time it will take to map out the province into village union societies and the answer given was that it would take 104 years. If it takes 104 years, then, for all practical purposes, it is of no use to the province or to the Government or to the public. I am quite aware that Government is anxious to go on with the work of formation of village union societies as speedily as it can, and from certain items in the Budget—I mean the item for the provision of Sub-Deputy Collectors—I rather think that the Government desires to take up the question in right earnest, and although the public and the Government are agreed on the question, it is perhaps just as well if we examine the situation as shortly as possible ; I have handed over a certain table to some of the Hon'ble Members—I am sorry I had not a sufficient number to be distributed to all members—and they will find from that table that the total population of the province, as we all know, is about 45 millions. Out of that only 3 millions live within municipal areas. With regard to the remaining 42 millions the problem is how they are to be brought within the amenities of organized civic life. It is a very important question and it is hardly necessary for me to point out that 42 millions out of 45 form the bulk of our population. Now, this 42 millions of our population live in the rural area. The total rural area is about 67,000 square miles out of which 45,000 square miles is the total cropped area and 10,500 square miles is the total forest area. So that if we take the total of the cropped area and the total of the forest area we find that the total of the inhabited area is about 11,500 square miles. That area, of course, is scattered over the whole province. Now, the introduction of organized civic life into this area of 11,500 square miles being the problem, the question arises as to how to solve it. From a reading of the District

Resolutions.

Hon'ble Mr. Provash Chunder Mitter.

Administration Committee's report and from certain conversation I had with some of the officers, I believe that the view which finds favour now is to map out each district into geographical areas and form village union committees in such areas. My point is that, if we proceed on this line we are sure to meet with various difficulties. Each of these geographical areas will be about 8 to 10 square miles according to the District Administration Committee's report. In various places such areas are densely populated and in others the population is thin. In some places the density is something like 2,000 in the square mile and it, therefore, stands to reason that such places are more important both as regards men and money than areas where other population is thin. For that reason I suggest that we should start with villages with a population of over 2,000. I have handed over another table to some of my hon'ble friends, the figures shown therein will perhaps be found useful. I have already mentioned the total of the inhabited area and in that area some of the villages and towns with a population of more than twenty thousand are within municipal administration. With regard to villages and towns with a population of ten to twenty thousand the total number is 48 and the total population is 674,185. Out of this 48, only 40 are within municipal administration or cantonment limits, and 8 are non-municipal towns. In the second group will be found towns and villages with a population of five to ten thousand. Their number is 162 with a total population of 1,084,422. Out of these 162 towns and villages, only 34 are within municipal administration, so that the total number of non-municipal towns and villages in the second group comes up to 128 with a population of 833,007. The Council will observe that the total population excluded from municipal areas are comparatively small. The next group which I propose to take up comprises villages and towns with a population of from two to five thousand. Their total number is 1,758 with a population of 4,858,299. Out of these 1,758 towns and villages, 17 only are within some sort of municipal or cantonment administration. So that the total number of non-municipal towns and villages in this group is 1,741 with a population of 4,807,163. Then, in the next group will be found towns and villages with a population of from one to two thousand. Their number is 6,134 with a total population of 8,278,424. And out of these 6,134 towns and villages not one is under municipal administration. After an examination of these figures we find that the number of non-municipal towns and villages with a population of more than two thousand is 1,877 with a total population of 5,151,870 and the number of non-municipal towns and villages with a population of more than one thousand is 8,011 with a total population of 13,430,294. So that roughly speaking about one-third of the population of the rural area is under no municipal administration. So my proposition is this: If we start with towns and villages with a population of over two thousand which have no municipal administration then it is not at all difficult to assume that perhaps, by local taxation, about which there will be powers under the proposed new Act, it will not be difficult to raise some five or six hundred rupees from two or three thousand people. The question of taxation is an important one. It will certainly be necessary to raise taxation higher later on. But as a beginning the presumption may be made that a particular place with a population of two or three thousand is likely to yield a better amount as its inhabitants are likely to pay better and to interest themselves in public affairs more than, say, a village with a population of 250. If we proceed at our past rate it will take 104 years to bring all villages under municipal administration, following the geographical scheme. But if we follow in the line set out in my resolution it will be quite possible, I expect, that most of our villages will be organized into unions within a comparatively short time and will give more satisfactory results than the geographical scheme. It may be said that there is no necessity to get a staff temporarily for this purpose. I will speak to the Council presently on this point. I am aware that there is the District Magistrate who is anxious to do his best. There is also the District Board. Now, let us first take the case of the District Magistrate. He is a person of multifarious duties. He is the head of several branches of district administration and however anxious he may be to develop the village unions, he cannot do so without an adequate staff, as his time is more than fully employed. At any rate the fact remains and our past experiences also shows and shows, conclusively, that from 1913 to 1918 we have progressed at such a bad rate that by leaving matters in the hands of the District Magistrate, it will take 104 years to develop village unions ; but according to my proposal it will only take about 20 or 25 years at the most. What I suggest is that a staff of this kind, namely, a senior civilian with four or five Deputy Collectors in charge of each division, assisted by the necessary number of subordinate officers, like Sub-Deputy Collectors, may begin work to organize unions in villages with a population of over 2,000, whose number, as I have already said, is 1,877. If you depute a senior civilian who is conversant with local conditions, who knows the people and can talk to them, and if he is well assisted with a number of subordinate officers who have specialized themselves in this kind of work, I venture to think that the work will be more satisfactorily and far more speedily, done. There is one other point. It may be said why not leave the work to the District Board. My objection to this is that a District Board has only one well-paid official and he is the Engineer. And with all due respect for his calling, I must say that by training he is not quite the fittest man to do organizing work of this nature. If I am right then it must be some other type of man and I think officers of the type I have suggested will be the best agency to carry on this kind of work.

Resolutions.

Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray.

I have suggested that the amount necessary may be taken from the provision allotted for construction of buildings in connection with the partition of the district of Midnapore. That requires a word of explanation. There are two partition schemes—Midnapore and Mymensingh. I am aware that these schemes have been fully discussed, local opinions have been consulted and then they have been accepted. I do not want to go behind that. But what I do say is this : that since August last and also since the policy inaugurated by Your Excellency's Government about the appointment of non-official Chairmen to District Boards and regard being had to the principles of likely reforms in future, whatever these reforms may be, it may be necessary that our ideas of the partition of districts may have to be revised. The districts may perhaps have to be in smaller units or it may be possible that some departments may have to be worked separately. So my point is this—I do not oppose the question of acquisition of land in the case of construction of buildings for you get the equivalent of money in land—but, as in the Mymensingh prison, later on, say after 4 or 5 years, it may be necessary in the light of new experience to alter our ideas about the selection of the site of the district town and the buildings already constructed may prove to be of no use then. Our experiences at Dacca and other places show how easily large sums of money may be thrown away. The partition of Midnapore will not be completed within a year in any case, and a further delay of one year, without disturbing the scheme of partition, will show Your Excellency's Government what the future will be. That being so, I submit that if the money be spent on the village union scheme it will be spent for a far more necessary purpose, however important the partition of districts may be."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH RAY said :—

"I support with a whole-heart this resolution of my friend Babu Provash Chunder Mitter. Your Lordship is probably aware of the fact that the Local Self-Government Act was passed in the year 1885 during the administration of His Excellency Lord Ripon as Viceroy and Sir Rivers Thompson as Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. In the year 1883 in anticipation of the passing of the Local Self-Government Act a special officer was deputed by Government to frame schemes for the formation of village committees which the Government thought would have to be introduced as soon as the Local Self-Government Act was passed, and Mr. Westmacott, the special officer appointed to frame this scheme, was ready with a scheme of 180 union committees in the year 1885 to be introduced in seven of the most enlightened subdivisions of the Presidency, Burdwan and Dacca divisions. But as a matter of fact no attempt was made to give effect to this scheme and we find that in the year 1913 only 61 union committees were formed in Bengal though the Government were ready with a scheme to introduce 180 union committees so far back as the year 1885, and though a special officer was appointed to give effect to the recommendation of Government, it appears that nothing was done by Government for 30 years. In answer to a question of my friend, the Hon'ble Babu Bhabendra Chandra Ray, at the last meeting of Council, Your Excellency's Government was pleased to give a reply to the effect that during the years 1916-17 Government sanctioned the formation of 150 union committees but that as a matter of fact 107 union committees have been created. That shows that there were about 35 union committees created each year. My hon'ble friend, Mr. Mitter, has told Your Excellency's Government to-day that it is necessary to create at least 1,800 union committees throughout Bengal. So at the rate of 35 union committees per year it would take, I think, more than 50 years to create the necessary number of union committees throughout Bengal. But the rate at which union committees have recently been created is a much better rate than that at which union committees were created for the first 30 years, namely, from the year 1885 to 1913, that is, at the rate of two union committees per annum, as only 61 union committees were created in the course of 30 years. It would have taken then, I think, about 900 years for the formation of all these union committees. That these union committees are absolutely necessary was admitted by Sir Alexander Mackenzie when he was Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. During his administration there was a water famine in Bengal and he found that there was no organization in Bengal for excavating tanks and giving relief to the poor people. I know Government is fully alive to the necessity of creating these union committees. Your Lordship's predecessor in office, Lord Carmichael, said as follows :—

Resolutions.

Hon'ble Sir S. P. Sinha.

'You wish to ensure the money being spent to the best advantage of those who want to help. It seems to me that there is only one way of ensuring this to entrust the choice of the work to the villagers and leave them as far as possible to carry it out under your supervision. This is the essence of Local Self-Government and as the principle of circle system so strongly advocated in the District Administration Committee's report a system, which, though I may not see it during my term of office, will, I hope, one day spread itself all over Bengal.'

I think the best way to give effect to this scheme would be to appoint a number of officers to be in sole charge of all these union committees and see that they are created as early as possible."

The Hon'ble SIR S. P. SINHA said :—

"My Lord, I think both the Hon'ble Members who have already spoken on this resolution have cordially acknowledged the fact that the Government is convinced of the desirability of the formation of union societies and of village committees throughout the whole province and that steps have been taken, and are being taken, as quickly as possible under the circumstances, for that purpose. But I venture to think that both my hon'ble friends were unduly pessimistic as regards the rate of progress in the past. The figures of existing union societies and the areas in which they have come into existence are as follows :—

Hon'ble Sir S. P. Sinha.

At the end of	1913-14	there were	66.
„	1914-15	„	76.
„	1915-16	„	84.
„	1916-17	„	157.

So during that year there were 72 union societies formed in the province and at the present time there are 250 sanctioned, and we have every hope that they will be formed by the end of the year ; so that though the rate of progress up to 1913 was slow, as the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray has pointed out, and though even after 1913 the rate of progress left much to be desired, I think, it cannot be said with justice that from 1915 there has not been, if I may say so, a spurt put on ; and even assuming that there is no further acceleration in the rate now in progress, we hope to have the whole province mapped out within a fairly reasonable time. But I do not for a moment suggest that we intend to adhere to the present rate ; we hope to make it much quicker. The difference between us is, firstly, as to the rate and, secondly, as to the method by which this progress is to be given effect to. As to the rate, I have already given the figures which, I trust, will convince the Council that recently the rate has been much accelerated. As regards the method, my friend, the Hon'ble Mr. Mitter, considers that it would be quicker to do it not according to the geographical limits of districts and divisions, but to take larger and more populous villages and form unions in them before other villages are taken in hand. Now, there is a considerable difference of opinion as to whether that would be the quicker method or not ; but I would ask my hon'ble friends to consider this fact, which, I think, they have ignored, namely, that within a little more than a fortnight from to-day, viz., on the 4th April, I hope to be able to introduce the Village Self-Government Bill which contemplates the formation of village committees throughout the province and defines the functions which will belong to them and the procedure by which they are to be formed. Therefore, I venture to think that it would be premature to consider the question of the staff or the method by which this is to be given effect to, until the Council has discussed the nature and functions of these union committees which we propose to form. On the 4th April, we propose to introduce the Bill, subject only to the proviso that the Secretary of State does not veto the proposed Bill in the meantime. I would, therefore, ask the Council to defer the consideration of this question until the Village Self-Government Bill is before it. In the meantime, let me tell the Council as to what we have been doing in the matter of increased staff. There are at present 40 Sub-Deputy Collectors employed as circle officers, one of whose principal duties is to assist in the formation of these union societies, and I may claim for them fairly that their work during the last two years has been satisfactory, having regard to the numbers I have already quoted. We have already applied for sanction to have a staff of 238, in place of the 40, whom we now employ—238 will include a leave reserve of 38. It is obvious that we have to wait for sanction before we can employ them and even when we do get sanction, we do not expect to be able to employ them all at once, but gradually as the work progresses and as funds permit. That is the ideal we have set before ourselves as to increased staff, for the purpose of carrying out, amongst others, the mapping out of the whole province into union societies, so far as regards the rate of progress.

As regards the method, as I have said, there is room for considerable difference of opinion, and my friend thinks that by proceeding district by district we should not get on quickly. We, on the other hand, think it is better to proceed systematically and district by district. Let me point out to the

Resolutions.

Mr. Provash Chunder Mitter.

Council that it is not so difficult, as my friend imagines, to do it district by district. We have done it already with regard to one of the largest districts, namely, Dacca ; we have done it almost entirely with regard to another fairly large district—Rangpur. There is no reason why, with the same method and with increased staff, we should not be able, within, neither 104 years as the Hon'ble Mr. Mitter thinks, nor 50 years as the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray thinks, but, within a fairly reasonable time to proceed systematically and divide the whole of the province into village committees as proposed by our Bill. But the reason why, even if we get sanction for 238 officers, we cannot do it all at once is this : we cannot possibly spare 238 officers out of the general staff that we have and it is not easy to get officers on the spur of the moment to do this particular special work which requires a certain amount of discretion and a great deal of knowledge with regard to the areas involved. Therefore, I wish to point out three things to this Council : firstly, that we should await until we know exactly the nature and functions of the village committees that are going to be constituted under the Act ; secondly, that it would be better to proceed systematically and scientifically in the way we have been doing, district by district, and not to take a number of villages scattered all over the province, the difficulties will only be increased if we have subsequently to revise the areas ; and, thirdly, we have already applied for a large increase in the staff, and we hope, with increased staff, to accelerate the rate of progress very much further. There is no reason to apprehend that it will be an unreasonably long time before we can initiate the system in its entirety. For these reasons, I would ask the Council not to accept this resolution, but I can assure my friend that the matter is receiving the most earnest and serious consideration of Government and we are anxious to get on as quickly as we can."

The Hon'ble MR. PROVASH CHUNDER MITTER said :—

"My Lord, if my hon'ble friend's assurance about the formation of village union committees at an early date really carried conviction with me I would have hesitatingly withdrawn this resolution. But, from the figures which my hon'ble friend has himself quoted, namely, that in the year 1917-18 the total number of village committees formed was 156 and in the current year the total number of village union committees which he expects will be formed will be 250. I would ask the Council to examine what time it is likely to take. I admit at once that the position is far better than the previous estimate 104 years ; but taking at the rate of 156 the position is this : the total area is 67,000 square miles and the average area is 10 square miles ; therefore, we want about 7,000 village union committees according to the present idea of Government, that is, at the rate of 156 a year—that was the rate of last year—it would take about 42 or 43 years. Now, at the rate of 250 a year—the rate promised to us—it will take about 26 or 27 years. I fully appreciate the difficulties of the Government in this matter, yet if I press for this resolution, I do it in the hope that energetic action in this direction will ultimately minimize many of the difficulties that confront the Government at the present moment. Now, my Lord, whether the period be 26 to 27 years or 42 to 43 years is not at all a speedy solution.

The next point of my hon'ble friend is this : that the Village Self-Government Bill will be introduced in April next, subject of course to the sanction of the Secretary of State. We all know what delay takes place before the necessary sanction is obtained and what further delay often takes place before a Bill is passed into law and in bringing the Act into working order, but every moment is precious, and if in the meantime the Government will have formed a large number of village union committees the Act will come into force under improved conditions, whereas delay will add to the difficulties of the situation. Therefore, however, cogent the reason may be that any big scheme ought to wait till the Act is passed, it is no reason why an attempt should not be made to form societies in respect of about one-eighth or one-sixteenth of the population in rural areas.

The next point of my hon'ble friend is that an improved staff is expected and that 40 Sub-Deputy Collectors have been working. I thank my hon'ble friend for this information; but these 40 Sub-Deputy Collectors have succeeded only in creating 156 village union societies in the year 1916-17. In the previous year, only 84 village union societies were created; there must be some reason for this apparent inadequate result,—for 40 Sub-Deputy Collectors to succeed in creating either 156 in one year or about 240 in the course of two years is certainly not a very good result. It is for this reason that I ask the Government, with all the earnestness that I can command, to examine their methods of creation of village union committees with those suggested by me. My friend has said that the method of proceeding district by district is the most systematic method: I quite admit it—I have not suggested that we should not proceed district by district. What I have suggested is that in each district there are a large number of populous areas—comparatively more populous than other areas. Take up the comparatively more populous areas and try the experiment at any rate in some of such areas and compare the results with your own method. That is all I ask for because my resolution, even if accepted, will mean the formation of union committees in something like one-eighth or one-tenth of the total area. I do not claim that my suggestion is necessarily better than the method followed by the Government. I do believe there is no school as the school of experience and if the past results have not been very satisfactory do not follow that method, but give the other method a trial as well and then form your own judgment. I am glad to hear that in the districts of Dacca and Rangpur there have been gratifying results. Next to Howrah, which I believe has a density of about 1,850 to the square mile, Dacca is one of the most populous of districts. It is a district where a large number of bhadralogs still reside in the villages. It is also a district to which much attention has been paid by the District Administration Committee as also by the Government. Well, if the results have been gratifying in Dacca it is certainly a matter for congratulation, but that is no reason why the other experiment should not be tried, say in Howrah. Now, as regards Rangpur, I would venture to make a shrewd guess. I may be wrong, but I know that the Collector of the district is enthusiastic in the matter and it may be that his enthusiasm had something to do with this satisfactory result. The limited success in Dacca and Rangpur ought not to stand in the way of a trial of my suggestion in other districts or in different localities of the said two districts.

My Lord, my hon'ble friend has asked us to wait till the Bill is introduced. May I suggest that the consideration of this resolution be postponed for say six months for the reason that after the Bill is passed we may have an opportunity of discussing this matter. I do not wish to press the resolution if that assurance is given."

The Hon'ble SIR S. P. SINHA said :—

"I can give the assurance if that assurance will satisfy the Hon'ble Member that this matter will receive the continuous attention of Government both before the Bill is passed and after the Bill is passed and any suggestions from my hon'ble friend in the meantime will receive our earnest consideration."

The Hon'ble MR. PROVASH CHUNDER MITTER said :—

"In that view, I do not want to press this resolution."

The resolution was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

APPENDIX TO THE LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. II.

The Hon'ble RAI MAHENDRA CHANDRA MITRA BAHADUR moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that—

(a) provision be made in the Budget for the appointment of 17 District agricultural officers for each of the districts in the Presidency of Bengal, where there is none at present, and

(b) the necessary amount be taken out of the grant provided in the Budget for the acquisition of land in connection with the partition of Mymensingh.

He said :—

"My Lord, in spite of a dislocation in business and financial arrangements caused by the war which has been embarrassing for some time past to the export trade of our country, it is a matter of great satisfaction to note that the Hon'ble Sir William Meyer has rightly observed in his financial statement for 1918-19 that 'our satisfactory revenue position is largely due to favourable agricultural conditions.' Again he remarks that 'the very favourable agricultural conditions which India has enjoyed have more than counterbalanced the primâ facie unfavourable factors' referred to in the Budget. Other heads of revenue under Posts and Telegraphs and Excise which show material increase are owing to favourable agricultural conditions. Their results are reflected in the still further advance of railway earnings.

The agricultural industry is, undoubtedly, the most important in our country, employing by far the largest number of our countrymen, and providing food supplies and raw products, such as cotton, jute and indigo, that are of great importance in times of peace as well as in time of war. It is surprising that our benign Government are not doing much for the agriculture to increase the productivity of the land and also to increase the income of the cultivators who are now not in prosperous condition. It has been authoritatively stated recently in the columns of the Englishman that 'it is not too much to say that in the war that is now being waged Germany has derived incalculable assistance from the scientific development of her agricultural resources. The agricultural chemist has so improved land of poor quality like sand-dunes and moor-land, by treating it with potash or substances containing phosphoric acid, and by planting it with crops that gather nitrogen from the air, that in 20 years Germany has been able to increase the yield of potatoes in tons per acre by 58 per cent. and wheat by 60 per cent. But this is the common experience of countries that run agriculture on business lines, and the sooner the Government formulates an agricultural policy and carries it out the better will it be for the staple industry of India.'

Mr. Smith, Deputy Director of Agriculture, Bengal, rightly makes the following remarks in the Annual Reports of Expert officers of the Department of Agriculture, Bengal, for the year ending 30th June, 1917, page 5 :— 'From the work that has been done by each Association in the past, I am convinced that when an agricultural officer has been appointed to each district, each Association will become the centre for real work.' I understand from the Annual Report of the Agricultural Department that district agricultural officers have now been appointed to the following districts, viz., Dacca, Mymensingh, Faridpur, Bakarganj, Tippera, Noakhali, Pabna, Malda, Rangpur, Bogra, 24-Parganas, Bankura, Birbhum and Midnapore. It is a matter of great surprise that the rest of the districts in our province is still without district agricultural officers. I find in the Civil Budget estimate that provision has been made for three such officers, but I fail to understand why provision has not been made for the rest of the districts for the development and proper supervision of this most important industry.

My Lord, I am not prepared to touch on the desirability or otherwise of partitioning the district of Mymensingh. But I am in a position to show by a comparative statement of the position of other districts.

My Lord, in 1899, the proposal for the partition of the district of Mymensingh was revived in connection with Mr. Savage's enquiry on the notoriety of the district for outrages on women. The proposal was, however, rejected by Government on grounds of expense.

At the present day there is no reason to suppose that outrages on women are more common here than in other districts.

'The great majority of petty criminal cases have their origin in land disputes, although they often appear under the guise of rescuing cattle from the pounds or petty assaults' (vide page 121, District Gazetteer of Mymensingh by Mr. F. A. Sachse, I.C.S., Edition of 1917).

I quote the following figures from the Report of the District Administration Committee, page 39, for consideration of Your Excellency's Council and the tabular statements will speak for themselves :—

My Lord, from the above statement, it appears that there is no immediate necessity for partitioning this district.

Resolutions.

Mr. Beatson Bell ; Mr. Kerr.

My Lord, it may be necessary to have partition of districts for administrative convenience. but it is a matter for the consideration of the Council whether such kind of work may not be postponed and due attention given to the encouragement of agricultural pursuits. With these observations I commend this resolution to the acceptance of this Council."

The Hon'ble MR. BEATSON BELL said :—

"My Lord, I do not propose to follow the Hon'ble Member into a discussion regarding the desirability or otherwise of partitioning the district of Mymensingh and the desirability or otherwise of acquiring land for that purpose in the coming year. We have debated the question of the partition of Mymensingh very fully on previous occasions in this house and we are going to debate it again in Resolution No. XX, when it will be examined as a straight issue. I propose, therefore, in connection with the present resolution to confine myself to the subject mentioned therein, namely, the appointment of district agricultural officers. I can assure the hon'ble gentleman and the house that we are already endeavouring to provide a district agricultural officer for every district in the province. We sent up a scheme to this effect as long ago as 1911, during the time of the Eastern Bengal and Assam Government. The Government of India thoroughly appreciated the scheme and they asked us to introduce it, in the first instance, on an experimental basis. We did so; and we gradually appointed nine district agricultural officers. Quite recently, in October 1917, we wrote up to the Government of India and told them what we had done and assured them that the experiment was getting on in a most satisfactory manner. We, therefore. asked them to sanction the introduction of district agricultural officers in every district throughout the province. We assured them that, for two reasons, we did not intend to make all the appointments in one year. In the first place it was necessary to look about and to get officers of the right stamp before appointing them. In the next place, it was an important part of the scheme to establish district farms where the officers could test, agricultural improvements before recommending them to the raiyats. The Government of India have sanctioned our scheme and have sanctioned our proposals for introducing it. As regards the cadre and its expansion, I do not think that the Hon'ble Member has got the right figures. At present, there are 26 districts ; we have already appointed 12 district officers and we intend to appoint five more in the coming year. That will bring the number up to 17, and there will then remain only nine districts. We hope that in the course of a few years (say 5 or 6 years at the most) these nine districts will be provided with the officers whom the Hon'ble Member desires and whom this Government desires as much as he does. I hope that, in these circumstances, he will not press his resolution, but will work along with Government to bring about our common object."

The Hon'ble MR. KERR said :—

"My Lord, I do not propose to go into the general question of the partition of the district of Mymensingh, because, as the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell has remarked, this matter will come up at a later stage of this debate. But as the Hon'ble Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur has given the Council certain statistics, it is desirable that I should supplement them. Of course, it is well known that statistics in skilful hands can be made to prove anything; but the statistics which I shall give will, I think, show in a conclusive manner, how extremely urgent the necessity of partitioning

Resolutions.

Rai Mahendra Chandra Mitra Bahadur.

Mymensingh really is. The area of the Mymensingh district is 6,249 square miles. It is far the largest district in this part of India. Its population in 1911 was 4½ millions ; it is now probably over 5 millions. In 1873, the area of the district was the same, but the population was less than 2½ millions. In other words, the population has doubled during the last 45 years. The work of the district officer has far more than doubled. The most striking proof of this is perhaps that in 1873 the number of pleaders in the district was only 52. There are now more than 400 pleaders and barristers in the district, besides 384 mukhtars and 96 revenue agents. Most of these gentlemen, I hope, are earning a comfortable living, and it can be imagined what these figures mean in the way of increase of work in the courts and public offices of the district. This increase is reflected in the increase of staff. I will not weary the Council by giving the detailed figures, but in every department, civil, revenue and criminal, the staff has more than doubled since 1870. As the District Administration Committee remarked, either the work of the district officer at Mymensingh, in 1873, was ridiculously light, or it is now intolerably heavy. We know from experience that the work of a district containing a population of 2½ millions is by no means light. The work is quite as much as any district officer can cope with. The only possible conclusion, therefore, is that for many years past the district officer of Mymensingh has been intolerably overworked, or rather that the burden which has been placed upon him is more than he can discharge. As the Hon'ble Member has shown, there are other districts in this Presidency in which things are nearly as bad, but we are not concerned with them at present. The question before the Council is whether the partition of Mymensingh is necessary or not, and to this, I think, there can only be one answer."

The Hon'ble RAI MAHENDRA CHANRDA MITRA BAHADUR said :—

"My Lord, with reference to the observations made by the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell who has said that there is every chance of appointing these agricultural officers within a very short time. I have very little to say. So far as I can gather from his reply, several officers are to be appointed. I thought it necessary to bring to the notice of the Council that these agricultural officers should be appointed at this stage. As has been already stated by the Hon'ble Member in charge that there is a likelihood of these officers being appointed within a short time, that is, within about three or four years, I do not press my resolution. I entertain the hope that these officers will do good work in the Agriculture Department who, to my mind, are not now doing satisfactory work owing to the shortness of staff.

With regard to the observations made by the Hon'ble M. Kerr, I submit that the figures which I have quoted were compiled by me from the published records. We have not access to the Government records in office, but we gather our figures from the printed papers or reports ; I have referred to the report from which I have collected the various statements which I put before the Council. As I said I am neither in a position nor have I any desire to search for records for the fiat has gone forth that the partition of Mymensingh is to be effected. But what I do say is this that the acquisition of land in connection with the partition may be postponed till after the war is over. That is the view which I entertain and that is the view which I thought it necessary to bring before the Council. In view of the assurance given by the Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell, an assurance which I cannot overlook, I think, under the circumstances, I must withdraw my resolution."

The resolution was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

APPENDIX TO THE LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. III.

The Hon'ble RAI MAHENDRA CHANDRA MITRA BAHADUR moved the following resolution :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that—

(a) suitable provisions be made in the Budget for—

(i) the Tropical School ;

(ii) construction of the new Eye Hospital ; and

(iii) necessary contribution towards the construction of an extension of the Tropical School building to provide for an Institute of Hygiene ; and

(b) the necessary amount be taken out of the grant provided in the Budget for the acquisition of land in connection with the partition of Mymensingh.

He said :—

"My Lord, I do not wish to put forward arguments in support of my resolution because so far as the last part of my resolution is concerned I have already brought it to the notice of the Council. With regard to the first part of my resolution I submit that it is hardly necessary to state that they are very useful institutions. And I think that no speech or argument is necessary to support my resolution which speaks for itself and I commend it for the consideration of the Council."

The Hon'ble SIR HENRY WHEELER said :—

"Sir, the Hon'ble Member's resolution raises the matter of three projects about the utility of which there is no difference of opinion between us. We are all agreed that they are most beneficial and the sooner they are carried out the better. The question of provision for them in the Budget turns rather on practical possibilities and their desirability in comparison with other schemes. I will take them seriatim and briefly describe the position, and in the light of my remarks I trust Hon'ble Members will be satisfied that any alteration of the Budget in this respect is unnecessary.

In the first place, the Tropical School is an accomplished fact ; the building is already standing in Calcutta (and a very fine building it is), merely awaiting equipment and professorial staff. Unfortunately, owing to the war, we can get neither ; we shall have to wait until after the war before the school can start on its successful career and these deficiencies can be made good. Even if we put money in the Budget for this purpose we could not spend it.
